PINAMOPOAN ATTACKED BY LAND AND SEA FORCES

Germans Driven Completely From Greece

Fall Of Budapest Seen As Next Blow To Enemy's Citadel

Interpretation By

Kirke L. Simpson

(Wide World War Analyst)

Caught in the 300-mile-long scythe-like sweep of Russian armies across the plains of Hungary, Budapest was plain-marked on European war maps this November week-end as the almost certain scene of the next mortal blow to fall upon the shrunken Nazi inner citadel.

Red army vanguards storming up the Danube from the south were almost in the suburbs of the city. From the east and northeast also they were closing in swiftly beyond the outflanked and impotent upper Tisza river water hazard. The breath-taking scope and power of the Russian attack converging on Budapest, and the speed with which it everywhere followed ahead, spelled the doom of that Danubian redoubt guarding the road to Vienna.

At Domsod, 20-odd miles south down the Danube, the Russians were less than 140 miles airline from Vienna. West of the Domsod beyond the river lay the direct road and rail approaches to the Austrian capital.

The scope of the Russian advance in Hungary, the tremendous breadth of front it covers from the southern corner of Czechoslovakia to the point where the Danube flows across the Hungarian border into Yugoslavia, strongly implies that the coming siege of Budapest is merely an

ANOTHER WEEK ADDED BY DRIVE

Community Chest-War Fund Campaign To Continue Longer

Although the total sum raised for the Community Chest-War Fund campaign on Saturday had reached $70,000, it was still $8,000 short of the goal set. Accordingly W. J. Riley, general campaign chairman, stated that the drive will be continued next week or longer if it is necessary to raise the sum of $78,000. He said that many people are desirous of donating and are calling the Community Chest office daily stating that no one has yet solicited their money. These are urged to call at the Community Chest office in Hotel Virginia and make their contribution.

Also Mr. Riley states that there is no reason for anyone not giving something to this unusually worthy cause and that if they have not been solicited they should see that their donation is subscribed.

Parish Fuller, president of the United War Fund, said Saturday that Louisiana is definitely lagging in its campaign to raise $1,529,206 for America's armed forces and war victims of the United Nations and urged all voluntary campaign workers to redouble their efforts to meet local and parish quotas.

Fuller said that a recapitulation of state-wide reports received up till

LONDON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Romanian government, which has been accused by Moscow of protecting Fascist elements, has resigned and has been reconstituted on a more democratic basis, the Bucharest radio said tonight. Gen. Konstantin Sanatescu remains at its head as president of the Council of Ministers and holds the additional portfolio of Interim Minister of War, the broadcast said.

REARGUARDS GO TO YUGOSLAVIA

Whirlwind Campaign Little Less Speedy Than Enemy Conquest

RETREATING ARMIES MAY NEVER REACH FATHERLAND

By Lynn Heinzerling

ROME, Nov. 4.—(AP)—British troops and Greek patriots have driven the Germans completely from Greece in a whirlwind campaign that was little less speedy than the lightning Nazi conquest of 1941, Allied headquarters announced today.

An R. A. F. officer said it was believed the last German rearguards crossed over into Yugoslavia Thursday night—38 days after British troops landed on the rocky western coast of the Peloponnesus September 26. It took the Germans 27 days to overrun the little country in the spring of 1941.

It was an almost bloodless victory for the Allied arms, for so anxious were the Germans to clear out and so well did the guerillas do their work, that British ground forces were unable to bring the rearguards to battle until they overhauled the retreating columns in northern Greece.

Before that sharp, short engagement at Kozane, 58 miles southwest of the port of Salonika, British and patriots had swept across the Peloponnesus and on October 14 seized the capital of Athens by a combined assault from sea and air in which American transport planes took part.

An Allied announcement today said additional British troops had landed near Salonika, which previously was freed by patriots and other Tommies moving up to the northern Greek port by land, and these forces reported also that no German troops remained on the mainland except a few stragglers.

Tonight the Germans, who may never get back to the fatherland in view of the strong Yugoslav and Russian army positions in Yugoslavia, were still on the run out of Albania and Serbia.

A German broadcast said Nazi troops had strong positions in northern Albania, and were engaged in street fighting with "Communist elements in the capital of Tirana itself."

Those Germans who fell back into Yugoslavia were under attack from

The British information service issued the following announcement:

"The British joint staff mission deeply regret to announce that Field Marshal Sir John Dill, head of the British joint staff mission in Washington and representative in the United States of the prime minister of the United Kingdom in his capacity as minister of defense died tonight in Walter Reed Hospital.

"For seven months the field marshal has been fighting a refractory type of anemia for which no specific treatment is yet known to medical science.

"In spite of repeated transfusions of blood in the long run the storm of this disorder proved too great for his constitution."

JAPS FALL BACK FAST IN BURMA

Complete Withdrawal From That Field Considered Possibility

NEW DELHI, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Allied forces are advancing so rapidly in north Burma against so little opposition as to raise the question of when and where the Japanese plan to put up further resistance.

Points raised are:

1. Has the beating the Japanese have taken in Burma this year weakened them so that they must select a defense line farther south, where they would be less extended and their supply work easier?

2. Are they fearful of a sea-strike by the British eastern fleet at Rangoon and are they pulling southward for that?

3. Or has the whole Japanese situation deteriorated so badly on account of American successes in the Pacific that they are assembling in south Burma for a possible total withdrawal?

The Japanese long ago evidently accepted defeat in the air over Burma, but in recent months they have taken a land beating as well. Certainly the pounding of their supply lines throughout Burma has complicated their strategy.

During the past month of steady advance the British 36th division has moved southward from the Mugaung vicinity along the main railroad line until it now is at Mawlu, 35 miles northwest of Katha.

Katha is an important Irrawaddy river port and rail head 100 miles southwest of Myitkyina, which finally was taken from the Japanese August 4.

During the same time Chinese forces operating more directly southward from Myitkyina have reached within 15 miles of Bhamo, important Irrawaddy river station.

Bhamo and Katha are almost on a line east and west, but both are on the winding Irrawaddy.

From Bhamo the river swings westward in a big, lazy "S" to Katha, where it is joined by a spur line to the central Burma railroad. River and

YOUTH STATES HE STOLE 24 AUTOS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Police Sgt. Robert Gonzales, of the automobile theft bureau, said today that a 19-year-old boy arrested here told police he had stolen 24 automobiles within the past 30 days just for the thrill of it.

Gonzales said the youth identified in police records as Wilburn Lewis Purvis came to New Orleans from Gulfport, Miss., about 90 days ago and was employed by a shipyard here at a salary of $12 a day.

Police said the cars had been removed from war-plant parking lots absolutely in various parts of the city. All have been recovered, they said.

11 REICH CITIES HEAVILY BOMBED

More Than 5,000 Planes Fail To Encounter Air Opposition

LONDON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—More than 5,000 Allied planes gave Germany a seven-battelled aerial blitz today, smashing at 11 Reich industrial cities and pouncing on Nazi troops along the western front in day and night assaults.

The big day was rounded out by the attack tonight of more than 1,000 R. A. F. heavy bombers against Bochum, important industrial city in the Ruhr.

During the day American heavyweights on widespread big-scale raids met no opposition from the luftwaffe.

United States Eighth air force bombers and fighters, victors over the German air force Thursday when they destroyed 208 Nazi planes for a loss of 59, reported eight bombers and six fighters missing from a force of more than 1,900 today.

Through heavy clouds they bombed oil refineries in the Hamburg-Harburg area of northern Germany and at Misburg near Hanover, a synthetic oil plant at Gelsenkirchen and railway yards at Hanover and Saarbrucken. Intense antiaircraft fire was

RUSSIANS REACH BUDAPEST EDGE

Crash Into Soroksar, One Mile Outside Of Shell-Torn City

LONDON, Sunday, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Russian tanks yesterday crashed into Soroksar, only a mile outside shell-torn Budapest, and then were hurled back in a great armored battle flaming along the edge of the imperiled Hungarian capitol. Budapest radio announced late last night in a broadcast describing the Axis situation as critical.

Fifty miles southeast of Budapest other Soviet troops toppled the Tisza river stronghold of Szolnok in a great wheeling movement that sent Red army units charging across the Budapest-Szolnok trunk railway in a 19-mile front in pursuit of the enemy retreating northward.

Premier-Marshal Joseph Stalin announced the fall of Szolnok, whose capture cut the enemy's direct escape route into Budapest and secured another valuable Tisza crossing for Red army reinforcements flowing into the Budapest battle.

A total of 40 Hungarian localities were swept up during the day, and Berlin said both sides were throwing in fresh troops.

Dispatches relayed from Stockholm said street fighting had broken out between Hungarian workers and Nazi SS troops inside the capital, and that the German commander, Gen. Alfred Jacob, was having considerable difficulty in maintaining order.

The admitted Russian penetrations to Soroksar put Red army tanks within six miles of the heart of Budapest.

MEEKS, BARBER, IS CRITICALLY STABBED

Tom Meeks, operator of a beauty supplies establishment and barber shop here, was reported in a critical condition at St. Francis sanitarium yesterday although he was said to have been showing improvement during the afternoon. Meeks was stabbed in the left chest several times during an altercation with another barber, H. L. McGlothlin, about 8 o'clock Friday night.

Attending physicians said Meeks had been stabbed "four or five times" in the left chest, the wounds penetrating the lungs. His condition was regarded as extremely grave yesterday morning but he had been placed under an oxygen tent and was reported "better" early last night.

Meanwhile McGlothlin who came here recently from Ferriday, is being held in the Ouachita parish jail where he was transferred yesterday after spending Friday night in the city jail. He was arrested by Police Officers S. L. Taylor and H. J. McMurry at the scene of the stabbing.

Police said McGlothlin stabbed Meeks with a pair of barber shears during the altercation in front of the barber shop in the 100 block of DeSiard street. Witnesses declared intervention by a soldier who tore the scissors from McGlothlin's grasp probably kept Meeks from being stabbed to death on the scene.

U. S. TROOPS IN SCHMIDT RETREAT

Swarms Of Divebombers Flatten Town After Withdrawal

BATTLE OF WALCHEREN IS DECLARED ALMOST AT END

By Thoburn Wiant

LONDON, Sunday, Nov. 5.—(AP)—American troops, although driven back from the high water mark of their invasion of the Reich, the town of Schmidt, held their lines to the north firmly last night while Allied troops in southwestern Holland plunged ahead and the German radio said the battle of Walcheren Island was near its end.

The doughboys scrambled out of Schmidt, 15 miles southeast of Aachen, under pressure by German infantry and tanks, but a few minutes after their withdrawal swarms of U. S. dive-bombers flattened the town, leaving, according to a frontline dispatch, the walls of only two houses standing.

A few thousand enemy troops still were fighting on Walcheren, but with the Allies advancing on all sides of them and their main route of escape flooded, they could only swim, surrender or die.

Allied troops clearing the western flank in southwestern Holland for the impending offensives hammered forward two miles in a general advance that swept to within three miles of the last German escape bridge at Moerdijk, now within easy artillery range.

A few thousand enemy rearguards were pressed into a strip three miles deep on the southern bank of the Maas river, and these were under aerial assault as their transport columns jammed the roads.

U. S. infantrymen in eastern Holland, defying mud and mortars, plowed ahead more than two miles and recaptured Ospel, 16 miles southeast of the Allied base at Eindhoven, thereby erasing almost all the gains ground out by the abortive enemy offensive a week ago.

Maintaining a mile-a-day clip, the U. S. Seventh and French First armies in the Vosges fought on east through the mountains, deepening a wedge driven into German lines blocking the

WILL VOTE FOR NEXT PRESIDENT

Chief Executive Of Nation And Other Officers To Be Elected Tuesday

The bitter campaign for the election of president and vice-president which has been waged for the past few months will be terminated with election day on Tuesday when qualified voters will go to the polls and cast their ballots. Chief interest centers in the campaigns led by Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the candidate for vice-president, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, and President Franklin D. Roosevelt and vice-president Senator Harry S. Truman of Missouri.

In addition to the election of president and vice-president, members of the U. S. Senate and House will be voted on. In Louisiana John H. Overton, incumbent, has been renominated for reelection as has Charles E. McKenzie, representative of the Fifth Louisiana district.

Member of the state supreme court from this district also will be voted on, but already Judge Frank W. Hunter of Bastrop has received the nomination which is equivalent to election as in the case of the senate and house.

DELAY IN EUROPEAN WAR BLAMED UPON ROOSEVELT

By Gardner Bridge

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Declaring President Roosevelt's "own confused incompetence" has prolonged the war in Europe, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey demanded tonight to know what has happened since September 1 to upset Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's prediction that Germany could be beaten this year.

Publication of Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's "clumsy" plan, reputedly calling for the reduction of Germany to an industrially-impotent state and for dismemberment of the German people after the war, Dewey declared, "was as good as 10 fresh German divisions."

"It put fight back into the German army," the Republican presidential nominee asserted in a partial text prepared for an address at a Madison Square Garden rally.

"It stiffened the will of the German nation to resist. Almost overnight, the headlong retreat of the Germans stopped. They stood and fought fanatically."

Dewey referred to the Morgenthau plan as it was outlined in reports in connection with the recent Quebec conference between Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

The plan, which the Republican nominee had said called for the "destruction" of the German people, was

Ready For Bigger Assault On Ormoc

Hard-Fighting 'Victory' Troops Of 24th Division Smash Forward From Carigara; Small Boats Thread Narrow Strait

By C. Yates McDaniel

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, PHILIPPINES, Sunday, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Veterans of the 24th division drove by land and sea yesterday against Pinamopoan, key highway terminus on Carigara bay, in preparation for a larger-scale assault against Ormoc, 20 miles southward, where the Japanese have prepared new defenses for a last-ditch stand.

Hard-fighting "victory" troops of the division smashed forward from Carigara, seven miles eastward, in the land assault, while small boats threaded the narrow San Juancio strait, on the east coast, and swept across the island's hump to the beach at Pinamopoan.

The Japanese strongly resisted all attempts to break their stubborn road block at Pinamopoan, which stands guard at the northern end of the narrow Ormoc valley corridor. A highway runs through the mountains from Pinamopoan to Ormoc, where mechanized Japanese reinforcements have been landed and started north.

Earlier small-scale American attacks were repulsed.

The Nipponese struck back with a counterattack in some force at Capoocan, midway between Carigara and Pinamopoan, but they were repulsed "bloodily," today's communique reported.

Fred Hampson, Associated Press war correspondent with the 24th infantry division, said the fight was bitter there in hills flanking Capoocan village.

One Yank company weathered a Banzai charge, killing 10 Japanese who penetrated a company command post.

Two patrols of the same company descended into a gully where the Japanese had set up machine guns and mortars to fire on the coastal road. The veterans slugged it out in a defile 50 feet wide and 400 feet long.

"Our losses were severe," Hampson said, "but more than 30 Japs died in their dugouts along the banks."

The 24th, victors in the bloodiest battle of the Leyte campaign just prior to their entry into Carigara town, were making a characteristic double time march toward Pinamopoan to meet the Japanese reinforcements.

The greatest difficulty faced was the rebuilding of bridges over two wide streams, necessary to get heavy artillery up to support the infantry.

"At midafternoon, we had made no contact with the Jap reinforcements," Hampson said in a Nov. 4 dispatch from the field.

Mechanized Japanese columns continued to move along the Ormoc valley road, lashed continually by American fighter planes, evidently attempting to bulwark crumbling Carigara bay lines around Pinamopoan.

American fighters continued low-level strafing attacks on these motorized convoys, the communique reported, "forcing continual dispersal of troops and vehicles and effectively preventing organized movement along the highway."

"The enemy has lost heavily in armored vehicles, trucks and artillery labeled as part of his latest reinforcement."

The Japanese also have "prepared hasty defensive positions in the hills fronting the plains north of Ormoc and is endeavoring to protect his last

ROOSEVELT ASKS 50,000,000 VOTES

Says He Is Anxious To Win Because Of 'Misrepresentation'

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt called tonight for at least 50,000,000 votes on Tuesday and declared himself anxious to win because "never before in my lifetime has a campaign been filled with such misrepresentation, distortion and falsehood."

In the final major address of his fourth-term campaign, to a crowd assembled in Fenway Park, Mr. Roosevelt declared that never since 1928 "have there been so many attempts to stimulate in America racial or religious intolerance."

He pronounced the American people competent to judge a political party which he described as working "both sides of the street."

Speaking in the same city where Thomas E. Dewey appeared but three days ago, he said that "just the other day you people here in Boston witnessed an amazing demonstration of talking out of both sides of the mouth."

A Republican candidate, he said, asserted here in Boston that "the Communists are strong section of the New Deal through which they aim to control the government of the United States."

On the same day in Worcester, he said, the same candidate had declared a Republican victory could end one-man government and remove the "threat of monarchy in the United States."

"Now really, which is it—Communism or monarchy?" he inquired.

"I do not think we could have both in this country, even if we wanted either—which we do not.

"We want neither Communism nor monarchy. We want to live under our

WOMEN TO MEET ON BOND DRIVE PLANS

Women of the Twin Cities who will assist in the coming War Loan drive will meet in Room A of the Virginia hotel at 2:30 on Tuesday at which time Miss Emma Mayfield of Lake Charles, chairman of the Women's Division of the state, will be a guest and address the meeting. It was announced Saturday by Mrs. Manning McGuire, chairman of the Ouachita Parish Women's division.

Mrs. McGuire has urged that the president or some representative of all women's clubs and all church circles of the Twin Cities attend the meeting which plans for women of the community in the Bond Drive will be outlined.

The part that the women of the Twin Cities will play in the next bond drive will be most important just as it has been in the past, Mrs. McGuire said, and this is an urgent request that all representatives of women's clubs and church circles attend this meeting.

20 KILLED WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHES

HANFORD, Calif., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Twenty persons were killed when an airliner crashed near here tonight, Sheriff Clyde H. Clyde of Kings county reported. Clyde said that the plane appeared to be a Commercial Airliner, and that the persons killed were Army and Navy personnel.

The bodies were scattered over an area of a mile. There was no indication that any of the passengers had attempted to bail out.

The plane was burning when discovered by Harold Anderson, farmer, the sheriff said.

Anderson said parts of an airplane fell about him. Then he saw the plane burning about a half mile away.

Transcontinental and Western air officials at San Francisco reported that one of their regular passenger planes last heard from near Hanford, was overdue at Burbank, Calif., airfield.

They said the plane was regular flight No. 8. The captain was A. T. Bethel. First Officer G. E. Smith and hostess, Miss Ruth Miller, all of Burbank, T. W. A. officials said.

The plane was enroute from San Francisco to Burbanks.

The bodies were scattered from 100 to 200 feet apart, most of the clothes ripped from them, Sheriff Clyde said.

Ambulances were rushed to the scene from Hanford, and from the Lemoore Airbase, 20 miles west.

Sheriff Clyde said that there was no indication of the cause of the accident. It was raining at the time, he reported.

SLAM-BANG PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN COMES TO CLOSE

By Douglas B. Cornell

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—A slam-bang campaign ends tonight and in three more days American voting legions will post millions of individual decisions into a fourth term for Roosevelt or a first for Dewey.

There will be a few stray oratorical outbursts, of course, between now and balloting time. But tonight's speeches by the rival presidential nominees—Franklin D. Roosevelt in Boston and Thomas E. Dewey in New York—were the last big bids for votes.

Both the Democratic and Republican camps speak confidently of victory. They always do. Nobody's going to admit he's heard ahead of time but presidential pollsters are giving their ledgers because the battle of the ballot looks to them as close.

A pell-mell parade may decide it. For the first time, there are more potential women voters than men. Of it may be that ballots from foxholes will turn the tide and that the victor won't be known for weeks. Eleven states will count service votes after November 7 among them pivotal Pennsylvania.

Weather and gasoline rationing which could keep voters at home, are hardly-to-figure factors.

BRONZE STAR IS AWARDED MAYS

Heroic Action Leads To Recognition On Battle Front

WITH UNITED STATES FORCES IN FRANCE—Corporal Silas H. Mays Jr., son of Mrs. Ollie Lee Mays of 210 South 4th street, Monroe, La., has been awarded the Bronze Star medal for heroic action against the enemy.

Corporal Mays was awakened by gun fire when a nearby guard fired upon an approaching party of Germans. The enemy took cover in a hay field and Corporal Mays began scouting the field in search of them. One Nazi he found concealed in a hay stack. Without regard for his own personal safety, he advanced directly toward the enemy, ordered him to his feet, disarmed and took him prisoner. The German was a SS Panzer trooper heavily armed with rifle and hand grenades.

The citation stated: "Corporal Mays utter disregard for his own personal safety and his quick definite offensive action were an inspiration to his fellow soldiers and was keeping with the highest traditions of the military service."

Corporal Mays has previously been awarded the European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign medal, the American Defense Service medal and the Good Conduct medal.

LARGE CLASS IS TO JOIN LEGION

Will Be Initiated At Meeting Slated For Monday Night

When the first meeting of L. B. Faulk Post No. 13 to be held during November convenes at the Legion Memorial Home Monday night at 8:00 o'clock a large class of War II veterans and several War I veterans will be waiting to be initiated as members of the local post.

Local Legionnaires are busily engaged in closing out the post's 1944 membership quota which has been set at 436 members by department headquarters. Commander E. F. Jones stated that officers are not expecting to have any difficulty in reaching that figure by November 11, since this years membership reached a total of 481. Commander Jones also stated in commenting on membership activities of the American Legion that the department of Louisiana is the only department which has maintained membership in the national organization's Big Ten continuously since the formation of the organization and naturally everyone is interested in maintaining this standing

A large attendance is expected at the Monday meeting to witness the initiation and any War II veteran wishing to become a member is invited to bring his discharge certificate and make application for membership at that time. Any person who holds an honorable discharge from any branch of the armed forces given after December 7, 1941, is eligible for membership.

It was announced that an Armistice day program will be conducted by the American Legion and that details will be given within the next two or three days.

A supplementary consumers' survey of 176 white homes in Monroe and West Monroe will be made Monday and Tuesday of next week, it was announced today by Henry Beindenharn, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce post-war survey problems committee.

Housewives were requested to give cooperation to the six women who will make the survey. An effort to determine post-war buying intentions of the Twin Cities after the war is the purpose of this survey. Seven major questions wil be asked, the principal one being whether or not new homes will be built, and the household appliances that will be needed.

The original consumers' survey was made in June this year and the results of June's survey were recapitulated by Dr. Robert French, director of the research survey at L. S. U., and he found it necessary to add 176 homes in spot-checking the total number of homes to make accurate estimates of post war buying intentions. This survey will be in direct charge of Owen R. Smith, assistant manager and research director.

LIFE ON LEYTE IS MISERABLE

Rain, Mud And Blown-Down Tents Make Things Uncomfortable

By Leif Erickson

DULAG, LEYTE ISLAND, Philippines, Oct. 31.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Life for a "Joe Blow" in this flat, untrained eastern Leyte valley is just a continuous miserable round of work—in rain, mud or dust—and flopping down in the dirt in the snow line every time a low-flying Japanese plane buzzes the tree-tops.

It is difficult to imagine a form of discomfort that Leyte does not have. The GI Joes and navy beach party sailors will talk long and loudly about what a hellhole Leyte was.

When it rains here the wind lashes a torrent of water through the trees and tents with the force of a hose.

The typhoon winds circle the compass. They start from the west and swing to the south, then blow from the southeast. No corner in the tent will stay dry.

Rest is impossible. If the tent stays up you are worn out from the suspense of lying awake waiting for it to collapse.

If it does come down, you wrap the fabric around you and try to sleep. It is futile to try a salvage operation while the gale howls.

If you have a shelter half over a slit trench, you likely will be sitting in three feet of water by morning.

And after the rain there is the mud. This valley, running northwest the length of the island, is covered with silt from countless years of floods. The one road west from coastal Dulag approximates a second class American highway. It is the sector's only passable road inland.

All autos, weasels and trucks, trying to break through to supply the infantry churn through a soupy mixture about the consistency of freshly poured concrete.

Around the camp the mud clings to your shoes like lead. Each time a Japanese plane approaches you dive into a foxhole knee-deep in mud or dust—depending upon the weather—and more dirt grinds into your skin and green fatigue suit.

A bulk of the supplies for the seventh and ninth divisions through the Leyte campaign was moved inland over the Dulag-Burauen road which is barely wide enough for two-lane traffic. Actually it carried four lines of traffic. In addition to trucks, caterpillars and ammunition cars moving back and forth from the front there were two lines of civilians in family files complete with carabao (water buffalo), goats or pigs.

As the Yanks captured burning Ormoc in their westward drive, the Filipino refugees on the east coast started returning to their homes. At the same time civilians in battle sectors fled eastward to the coast.

Traffic congestion was stupendous. But the military kept it moving.

When it didn't rain for as long as two days a thick fog of dust rose up and settled gray layers of dirt everywhere.

After a night typhoon the surf pounded Dulag beach where L. S. Ts were unloading. To get the trucks in and out of the L. S. Ts long lines of men tossed sandbags into the foaming water under the front ramps. The men on the outer edges of the sandbag lines were working shoulder deep in Leyte Gulf. Steel nets were laid on top of the sandbags to keep them from washing away.

None of this is nice work. But there's plenty of it for the Yanks of the Leyte invasion expedition.

Keep everything you are likely to need for emergency darning in a special kit in your sewing basket.

Voting Procedure

There seems to be some confusion in the minds of the voters over procedure to be followed in balloting in the national election next Tuesday. Previously, a vast majority of voters in this state merely "stamped the Rooster,"—meaning that they voted the straight Democratic ticket, and the job was done. This year, however, many persons wish to vote for the Republican electors—or Dewey and Bricker—and at the same time cast a ballot for the Democratic nominees for United States Senator, our representative from the Fifth district and others on the Democratic ticket. This cannot be done by stamping either the Rooster or the Elephant.

Electors pledged to vote for Roosevelt and Truman are John N. Sandlin, Edward J. Gay, Robert S. Maestri, W. H. Talbot, Charles Barker, Lamont Seals, O. R. Wurster, Steve Alford, Charles Bourque and L. P. Roy Jr. If a voter wishes to cast his ballot for Roosevelt and Truman, and also for the Democratic nominees for other offices, he may "stamp the Rooster."

Republican electors who will cast their electoral votes for Dewey and Bricker are John P. Conway, Jules Godchaux, E. P. Richard, Roy M. Watson, O. L. Braud, Clem S. Clarke, J. Wesley Ogden, C. O. Bullock, Bernard B. Franques and James A. Gannon. If a person wishes to vote for Dewey and Bricker and the Democratic nominees for other offices, he must stamp his mark in the box opposite the name of each elector, and stamp beside the name of the Democratic nominees for senator, representative, etc.

Voters should not make any other mark on their ballots. Stamping pads are provided in each polling booth and any mark other than a stamp will void the ballot. Pencilling in an "X" is not permitted.

Each constitutional amendment must be voted upon separately, but voters may cast a ballot for any or all of the amendments without spoiling their ballots.

Voters are cautioned to follow the instructions printed on each ballot if they wish to have their preferences reflected when the vote is counted Tuesday night.

HEAVY VOTE INDICATED

This campaign began with the assumption that the total presidential vote would be approximately 40,000,000, compared to nearly 50,000,000 four years ago. Eleven million men in the armed services, most of them of voting age, an unusual large migratory population and an interest in the war that far outranked the candidacies were calculated to hold the vote down to a far smaller total than in 1940.

Now registration totals are considerably in excess of predictions. Most of the big cities either show direct gains over 1940 or gains when absentee soldier ballots are included. New York City is an example. Gotham has lost population, due to soldier and war worker departure, and registrations of civilians total 173,847 less than four years ago. But service men from that city have applied for 375,128 ballots. In Chicago, Boston, San Francisco, Baltimore, and other cities those qualified to vote are the most numerous in history.

But registrations are high also in rural and small town areas of many of the states that will be decisive in the election, especially in those of the Great Lakes-Ohio Valley region, and veteran political analysts are puzzled as never before about which side the trends favor as voting interest comes to flood tide.

MAN-HOUR OUTPUT

In discussions relative to peace-time economy a factor, heretofore mentioned only in passing, is creeping in. It is "output per man-hour." This is on the increase.

From 1929 to 1939 it increased 32.7 per cent while the worker's wage increased 21 per cent. During the three busy war years, from 1941 to 1943, inclusive, output per man-hour increased 10.9 per cent. In the three years wages increased 37.2.

It is obvious, as Laurence Stern points out in the Magazine of Wall Street, that a rise in wages must be at the ultimate expense of the consumer unless it is paid for out of increased production. Should "output per man-hour" be stepped up markedly, the inevitable result will be reduction in employment. Thus a "vicious circle" is created.

A situation could develop where high wages are paid to a few while many are out of jobs and clamoring for relief.

NEW RAILWAY COACHES

Railroad managements in this country are encouraged by the prospect that they may be permitted soon to augment their passenger-coach rolling stock. More passenger coaches are needed to handle greatly increased civilian and military traffic.

Since 1942, no new cars for civilian passengers have been built. Now the War Production Board has released sufficient steel and aluminum for the construction of 55 such cars by the American Car and Foundry Company. It is disclosed that requests for materials by passenger-car manufacturers at present before the War Production Board involve more than 1,000 cars.

In view of the urgent need, it is expected that the board will release most of the materials requested. A factor which may hinder the construction of a large number of cars at this time is the question of price. Selling prices of cars are held at the levels of 1941 by a regulation of the Office of Price Administration.

Not that it makes a great deal of difference, but according to latest advices Turkey has not started fighting on the side of the Allies..

Germans have discovered a new secret weapon which is saving many of their lives. It is a white handkerchief displayed on the end of a bayonet.

Jimmie Fidler
IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 4—In view of the fact that Constance Bennett once sued me for more money than I ever expect to own and thereby caused me many sleepless nights, I suppose I should bridle at the very mention of her name. The reverse is true. To tell the truth, I can't think of another lady in this business for whom I have a more genuine respect.

I've always admired her pugnaciousness and courage. She'll fight at the drop of a hat, and she never stops to ask how big or how influential her adversary may be. On those occasions when she gets the worst of the fray, she takes her licking like a good sport. The only thing catty about La Belle Connie is her claws.

At this writing, she is ready to embark on a new career as a producer. I think she'll make a good one. Moreover, because she has the courage of her convictions, I think she'll make exactly the kind of a producer this industry needs. I can't imagine her, with her fierce independence, copy-catting another movie-maker's hits; still less can I picture her abandoning a new idea because some hanger-on tells her that it can't be done. More producers with her type of mind and we might look for greater progress in picture-making.

I want to wish one of the most likable enemies I've ever had the best of luck in her new venture.

When a certain local columnist wishes to report a romance, she invariably states that the lady in the case has the gentleman "swooning." Since Ilona Massey's return from South America, if my count is correct, ilona has been credited with throwing no less than seven Hollywood gentlemen into "swoons." In her case, I doubt that the columnist is exaggerating; Miss Massey has that effect upon me. Men, that is, with one notable exception. She can't seem to induce a swoon on the part of any big producer who might give her a worthwhile role.

Speaking of beautiful girls—and I always am—you'd think the citizens of Hollywood eventually would become inured to feminine charms. In particular, you'd expect studio workers to become a blase as so many life guards about semi-draped female figures. How wrong you would be! Last week both Paramount and Republic had to ban visitors from (1) the set where Paulette Goddard was doing shower bath scenes for "Duffy's Tavern" and (2) the stage where 42 lovely chorines were cavorting about for "Earl Carroll's Vanities." So many workmen were finding excuses to linger on those sets that studio efficiency was tottering.

For years Hollywood producers have been crying about the scarcity of screenworthy fiction. Today the wails have risen to a crescendo. Studio heads say that fifty per cent of their future efforts will have to be remakes of previously filmed stories. Since I believe that great stories should be remade now and then, I can't work up any real concern over this plaint, but neither can I help challenging it. It's true, perhaps, that less good fiction is being written now than formerly, but if these Hollywood moguls will dry their eyes and glance over the great wealth of material written long before movies were born, they should be able to find enough plots to keep the cameras turning for a decade. Without being a truly widely read man, I'll guarantee to find a dozen fine stories for any producer who cares to apply. Most of you could do the same.

Ask anyone at 20th Century-Fox to name that studio's best bet for top-flight stardom and the reply, nine times out of ten, will be Anne Baxter. Yet Miss Baxter seldom works at 20th Century Fox; in fact, most of her noteworthy roles have been played for other studios on "loan out." Her situation is typical of the movie industry and it leaves me baffled. Why, if an employer's convinced of a player's value, can't he find suitable parts on his own lot?

I'm always amused by the mistakes in identity made by the average stargazing Hollywood visitor. For instance, at the Mocambo the other evening, three autograph-collecting sailors dashed up to Peverell Marley, the cameraman, and asked: "Aren't you in pictures." Marley replied that he worked for a studio and, forthwith, had to sign their books. Sitting at his table completely unrecognized, was Mrs. Marley, better known as Linda Darnell.

Most Hollywoodites will tell you that newcomers must "learn the ropes" before winning success. Maybe so, but not even those who know the ropes seem able to tie a safe matrimonial knot.

BY HENRY McLEMORE

By Mrs. Henry McLemore

"Dear Jeanie: It is no novelty for me to be described as 'all wet,' I know. Right at the moment I fit the description in every way. I slept wet and I got up wet, and I know I'll remain wet for another 24 hours at least. This does not bother me, however, as I have become immune to wetness. It is my natural state. I am smoking a wet cigarette, lighted by a wet match. Soon I shall eat some wet food. I can remember when I thought the story and play 'Rain' was an exaggeration. Now I realize it should have been entitled 'Shower.'

"Lost my mess gear somewhere and I now have one I took off a Jap who didn't see me first. It's a very good one having two nice little aluminum trays which fit into an aluminum lunch basket affair. I'll try to bring it home, it would be nice for Cindy's food and water.

"A few nights ago I was on a boat going from Somewhere to Somewhere (when I get home and anyone asks me where I was born, I'll probably say 'out of the Somewhere, into the Here') and I was sitting on deck with Col. Harvey Shelton, a swell gent out of Arkansas. What a night, with the Southern Cross riding high and the moon as golden as, well, gold. The warm, lovely night air of the tropics and the sound of the boat cutting through the water made it quite a night.

"Suddenly the Colonel turned to me and said, 'Damn it all, McLemore, on the nicest night I've ever seen in my life I would be sitting out here with a sergeant.'

"Jeanie, one of the things that we're all going to appreciate after this war is the opportunity it has given us to get acquainted with men we might never have known otherwise. I've met one helluva lot of good guys. One just passed me a minute ago. Maj. Ben Hudson from Atlanta and Gadsden, Ala. Tried to bum a cigarette off the bum but no luck.

"I'm going to send you a little present. I'll have it fumigated and try to get it off tomorrow. It's a little raincoat I took off a Nip about five feet two (eyes of slanting brown) but anyway, it ought to fit my gal. It has a tiny hood on it, and I think it's a cute raincoat and I'd like to picture you running between the house and the garage in it.

"It is getting dark and I can scarcely see. There's no point in lighting a candle because the rain and wind would blow it out. Don't be at all surprised if I hoot occasionally when I get home. We've all learned to see in the dark long after we used to be able to, and we've come to have many characteristics of that noble bird. Not that I didn't have them before I left home, I must admit.

"'Henry McLemore, do you realize what time it is?'

"'Sure, it's around 11:30.'

"'It is not, it's quarter after three.'

"Honey, I can hardly wait to get home and disagree with you on what time it is again.

"All my love,
"HENRY."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Text: Matthew 5:43-48; Romans 13:1-7
By William E. Gilroy, D.D.

Peacemakers are still blessed, and the Christian Church still stands for peace. It is true though we have been engaged in a world war and the church through its leaders, its army and navy chaplains and its many members both inside and outside of the armed forces have supported our country and the Allied cause. A few individuals here and there have maintained an attitude of aloofness, still preaching ultra-pacifism; but for the most part they have been like men ineffectively and pathetically talking about good health while others fought an epidemic of disease threatening to decimate humanity.

The analogy is not inept. One does not believe less in good health because he fights an epidemic of disease, but he knows that when an epidemic does strike, regardless of its causes and the contributing negligence of its victims, theories and ideals, and even preventive measures, no longer suffice. It must be fought with resources and measures adequate for its conquest. The same thing is true of war.

Surely we have discovered that it is useless to say that we will preach and practice peace, that we will never under any circumstance take up arms, as thousands of our young men were saying a few years ago, while we allow others to build up the armies and armament with which to destroy us. Instead of overcoming evil with good we were allowing evil to become so strong and powerful that it could not only destroy vast numbers of good men and women, but threaten the destruction of all ideals and agencies of good. We had forgotten that it is as much the Christian's part to fight and restrain evil as it is to overcome it with good.

We have been learning in a cruel and terrible way, lessons that both the Bible and history might well have taught us. The Bible is a book of wars as well as a book of peace. Its great heroes were uncompromising foes of evil and often that meant warfare, physical as well as spiritual.

But every true Christian is a pacifist in the ends and goals that he seeks. If we are fighting this war because we believe in war we are as bad as our enemies. If the aim and purpose of our fighting is not to stop ruthlessness and aggression, and to establish peace, we are sinning against God and man.

But there are testing days ahead. Will we use the victory for peace, or for selfish purposes of gain? Will it be our purpose to bind up the wounds, pouring in oil and wine in the spirit of the Good Samaritan or shall we let hate and revenge conquer? We shall help to pave the way for another war if we deal lightly with criminal perpetrators of the present horrors, but we shall not build peace unless we win those of all nations who are peacefully inclined and help them to better living in a better world.

Two plain tasks are before us and they are Christian tasks as well as tasks of government: to punish past warmakers, and curb potential warmakers, with no futile compromise with evil; and at the same time to encourage every art and act of peace, and to win to the cause of peace every person that can be won, regardless of whether he was our ally or our enemy.

MRS. SCHULER TO SPEAK IN CITY

Mrs. J. H. Schuler, Shreveport, executive secretary of he women's organizations of the Christian Churches of Louisiana, will visit Monroe, November 8.

She will speak on 'he theme, "The Church and the New World Mind," in the auditorium of the First Christian Church, at 2:30 p. m. Women's groups from the other churches are invited.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
(Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent)

As of Oct. 1 there were some 55,000 U. S. soldiers, sailors and marines known to be prisoners of the Germans or Japanese. There were, in addition, some 58,000 reported missing. Some of the missing may be dead, others may be reported later from the prison camps. Keeping the records straight on all these thousands in the prison camps makes one of the little known but more important and more tragic sideline jobs of the war.

Headquarters of information on United States personnel held prisoner by the enemy is in one wing of the old World War I munitions building in Washington. Article 77 of the Geneva Convention, governing treatment of prisoners, requires that each of the ratifying powers set up one of these Prisoner of War Information Bureaus. The United States and Germany ratified this agreement, though Japan never did.

For the United States, the Army handles this work for all services — Army, Navy, Marines, Coast Guard, civilians.

Before a man can be reported a prisoner of war he must first be reported missing in action. This missing in action report is cabled to the Adjutant General's Office in Washington, which immediately pulls the man's records from its files and reports the case to the casualty branch.

The man doesn't become a prisoner of war until he is so reported by the nation which captured him, or by direct communication in the form of a capture card received from the prisoner himself, addressed to his next of kin. Ordinarily, however, the first word the next of kin will get is a telegram from the War Department saying that the man is missing in action.

Names Transmitted First

As soon as a man is captured, the enemy obtains from him such information as his name, rank, serial number, home address and next of kin. This information is sent by the enemy authorities to the International Red Cross. From I. R. C. at Geneva, therefore, will come to the War Department an initial cable giving a list of newly reported prisoners by name, rank and serial number. From this first list the Prisoner of War Information Bureau prepares information for various identifying agencies which notify the next of kin, giving the relative the first news that the man previously reported as missing in action is now a prisoner of war.

A copy of this notification is then transferred from the identifying agency to the Prisoner of War Information Bureau of the Provost Marshal General's Office, which follows up the initial telegraphed report with a letter to the next of kin, explaining how and where he may be communicated with.

From 30 to 90 days later there will come a second cable from Geneva, confirming names and number and specifying the prisoner of war camp to which each man has been assigned.

A second letter now goes out to the next of kin, relaying this new information and enclosing full mailing instructions and labels for mailing out parcels and tobacco. And in the Prisoner of War Information Bureau the case now becomes a record in a visible strip file as well as on a machine record card so that the bureau has instantly available records on every individual.

Some Advice To Next Of Kin

All correspondence with relatives is handled by the bureau. As volume is increasing, officers request of prisoners' next of kin:

Don't write letters either to the bureau or to the Adjutant General's Office when you first get a "missing in action" telegram. It doesn't do any good. Neither department knows any more about any individual missing in action case than you do. The second request is, don't write letters to any other government agency or official. Write only to The Prisoner of War Information Bureau, Provost Marshal General's Office, Washington 25, D. C.

Once a month the bureau's strip file of names is microfilmed and the film sent to the Office of Censorship in New York, which clears all prisoner of war mail.

The punch card index is made out in duplicate. One copy stays in Washington, the other goes to General Eisenhower's headquarters, so that when the armies move into Germany, U. S. forces will know just what prisoners have to be accounted for, and where they are.

FIRST BAPTISTS PLANT COMPLETE

The First Baptist Church, in the current issue of the "First Baptist Informer," gives some figures of its building program. All told, the present church plant as it stands today represents an investment of over $194,000.

The lot on which the educational building stands was paid for when ground was broken in December 1933 and at that time the church had $5,000 in building and loan stock all paid out. At the present time, the church owes $20,000 on the construction of the plant. During the period of construction, approximately $150,000 was raised.

The remodeling and furnishing of the auditorium, done in 1940, cost $52,132.82, and the educational building and its equipment cost $142,104.74.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE SUBURBAN CHURCH

A new Baptist church to serve the area in and around Northeast Junior college will, according to present plans be organized at the First Baptist church in Monroe, by a special committee meeting Sunday, November 12 at 3 p. m.

Members of the First Baptist Church and members of other Baptist churches desiring to become charter members are urged to attend.

CHURCH OF GOD HAS NEW PASTOR

Rev. J. C. Grubbs has just come to Monroe to assume duties as pastor of the Church of God, 603 South Second street Monroe. He and his family are now settled here and he will preach twice today at his new charge.

He came from Lamar, S. C., where he was pastor for nine years. He had had 20 years' experience in the ministry, much of which has been of a pioneer nature, raising up congregations in new places.

New York Day By Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: This is worth setting down in anybody's diary.

A man took a million dollars out of his pocket and showed it to me.

The man is John (sometimes Jack to his close friends) Wildberg, lawyer and theatrical producer.

We were talking in the lobby of the Algonquin, and John was saying that his show, "Anna Lucastra," which he picked up out of a Harlem basement for peanuts, was doing pretty well. In fact, he said, he couldn't get tickets for his best friend, so I needn't ask.

Then he reached into his pocket and brought out a fresh telegram. It was from a Hollywood agent, and, naming a specific movie company, said, ". . . will pay you one million dollars for motion picture rights to Anna Lucastra."

I felt as some women feel when they behold the face of Frank Sinatra, the singing statesman.

"Yes," said Wilberg, "it's fantastic. Here I was, a poor boy, trying to make a living at law, and that's not so easy. I had a few clients, and one or two of them were in the theater in one way or another. I tried to help them make money to pay my fees, and so I got interested in what makes the wheels go 'round behind the curtain.

"I took a piece of this show and that, as part payment for my services, and one day I found out that I was a producer. Had to produce, to hold on to my investment.

"Well, here I am, with four Broadway successes on my hands and a million dollars in my coat pocket. Isn't it ridiculous?"

I first met Wildberg, a few years ago, when Clare Ogden Davis broke her arm on a New York Central railroad platform, after a visit to my home. Wildberg was then married to Ursula Parrott, novelist, who was an old friend of Clare's. So the injured lady got Wildberg after the railroad for having ice all over its loading platform, and he collected for her while she was laid up.

Wildberg is a lean, tall good-looking man, and I should guess that he's still under forty. Of dark complexion and with a calm appearance, he can talk business without raw pain.

He never goes to his own first nights but usually spends the time with Brock Pemberton, the Kansan who has produced more successes on Broadway than anybody else in our time.

Recently Wildberg bought the Belasco theater, one of the town's best, in 44th street east of Broadway. It is a house with a lot of atmosphere and a patina of memories. "I just bought it because I have always wanted to own it and happened to have the cash to pay for it," was the new tycoon of the show business.

And, speaking of shows, my wife and I recently saw one of the season's best. "I Remember Mama," at the Music Box.

The play is all about a Norwegian family in America and has nothing to do with war. Mary Christians as the Mama is a wonder. I first saw her when she was playing the queen to the Hamlet with Maurice Evans. She survived a terrific barrage of saliva in that play, since Evans, like many other actors, literally spits a deluge when he reads energetic lines.

Oscar Homolka is good in "I Remember Mama," though not very convincing in a long drunken scene. He is too vigorous to die naturally.

encountered over Hanover and Gelsenkirchen.

The Americans saw only a few German jet-propelled planes "which did not attack," a United States communique said.

In a coordinated strike, 800 bombers and 400 fighters of the Italy-based United States 15th air force struck oil plants at Regensburg and Augsburg and, banking off to the right, also hit rail yards at Munich and Linz.

R. A. F. Lancasters during the afternoon attacked Solingen, city south of the Ruhr and famous for its light engineering industry.

Second Royal air force planes attacked German troops near the Moerdijk bridge in Holland; United States Ninth air force fighter bombers helped carve the way for American troops striking toward Cologne; Mosquitos gave Berlin its 182nd raid of the war; and the German radio said more Allied planes were over Germany tonight.

Although the Eighth air force was idle Friday, the big Saturday punch was the third in four days, and already in November approximately 12,000 tons of explosives have been dumped on Germany by Liberators and Flying Fortresses alone.

bay until his assignment to Washington.

He is survived by his widow, Lady Dill, one son by a previous marriage, Maj. John de Guerin Dill, of the British royal artillery, now serving in the central Mediterranean, and by a stepdaughter, Miss Sonia Furlong, of Washington.

Secretary of War Stimson, Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, United States army, and Gen. H. H. Arnold, of the army airforces, issued statements paying tribute to the British officer.

Sir John has been called by British admirers "our best general since Marlborough" and during the early days of the war a German commentator once referred to him as the only British general 'worthy of our steel.'

An Irishman from Belfast, he was educated at Cheltenham College and Sandhurst, the British Military College. He served in the Boer War as a junior officer and in World War One as a brigade major.

Peacetime tours of duty as posts in India, and Palestine were followed by his recall to England in 1937 to take charge of the huge infantry base at Aldershot. The same year he was promoted to full general and knighted.

At the outbreak of the second World War he went to France as a corps commander but before the German smash into France was recalled to England and made vice-chief of the imperial staff. In May, 1940, he was appointed chief of staff.

"The fact that Allied forces stand poised at the gates of Germany is due in no small measure to the breadth of vision and the selfless devotion of Field Marshall Sir John Dill to our common cause.

Opposition to the 6th Amendment is from corporation boys. The New Orleans Police and Firemen are trying to get a decent Pension Fund for themselves, their widows and orphans. They want security for themselves when physically unfit and they want protection for their loved ones in case of an untimely death.

The corporation boys are trying to muddy the waters with a slick argument that the State will pay a portion of the cost of this Pension plan. SHEER NONSENSE. We quote the law for your information.

Act No. 310

A Joint Resolution: Proposing an Amendment to Section 25 of Article XIV of the Constitution of the State of Louisiana relative to providing a levy of one additional mill to be equally divided between the Firemen's Pension and Relief Fund of the City of New Orleans and the Pension Fund of the New Orleans Police Department.

Section 25—"In addition to the taxes provided above in this section the City of New Orleans shall also levy annually an additional special tax of one mill on the dollar, on all taxable property in said City, assessed and valued for City taxation purposes. The avails of this additional tax are hereby dedicated to the Firemen's Pension and Relief Fund of the City of New Orleans and the Pension Fund of the New Orleans Police Department. The said additional tax herein provided for is hereby specially dedicated to the purposes set forth above and shall be equally divided between the respective Firemen's Pension and Relief Fund of the City of New Orleans and the Pension Fund of the New Orleans Police Department, and shall be kept in segregated accounts by the City of New Orleans and paid over to the said Firemen's Pension and Relief Fund of the City of New Orleans and to the Pension Fund of the New Orleans Police Department for the uses and purposes as set forth in this paragraph."

The corporation boys don't want the farmer to have tax free gasoline. They don't want the country Parishes to have better school systems for their children. They don't want the Police and Firemen of New Orleans to have Pensions.

The Police and Firemen of New Orleans are going to fight and vote for better school systems in the Country Parishes. We are going to fight and vote for tax free gasoline for the farmers' implements, and we are asking that the people of the Country Parishes help us in this fight to maintain our pension fund systems which have been operating for the past 50 years.

DELAY

"so clumsy that Mr. Roosevelt himself finally dropped it," Dewey declared, "but the damage was done."

"The publishing of this plan while everything else was kept secret," Dewey said, "was just what the Nazi propagandists needed."

Alluding sarcastically to Morgenthau as "that master of military strategy and foreign affairs," the candidate asserted there had been "tragic consequences" of the "blunder" made in permitting the Morgenthau plan to become public.

Dewey quoted published stories to the effect that American troops overseas had found stiffened resistance by the Nazis and wondered if this had been caused by announcement of plans at home of what might be done with a defeated Germany.

"What does this mean?" Dewey demanded. "It means that the blood of our fighting men is paying for this improvised meddling which is so much a part and parcel of the Roosevelt administration."

"And at the very moment when his own confused incompetence has thus prolonged the war in Europe," the nominee continued, "Franklin Roosevelt goes on the radio and claims for himself the credit for everything our engineers, our war workers, our industry, our farmers and our fighting sons have done.

"We are advancing and shall reach our goals. Once rid of capricious, personal government, once we give our whole, our united thoughts to victory, we shall reach Berlin and Tokyo quicker—with less cost."

Dewey summed up the credo of his campaign in these words:

"Openly and in plain words John Bricker and I, in the name of the Republican party, are dedicated to these propositions:

"1. To speed total victory and the prompt return of our fighting men by putting energy and competence in Washington behind the magnificent effort of our military command.

"2. To provide American leadership in the world for an effective organization among all nations to prevent future wars.

"3. To direct all government policies in the peacetime years ahead to achieving jobs and opportunity for every American."

To these ends Dewey pledged:

"We shall restore honesty and integrity to our national government.

"We shall put an end to one-man rule.

"We shall unite our people in teamwork and harmony behind a president and a Congress that can and will work together to realize the limitless promise of America."

He said these objectives could never be obtained "under the tired and quarrelsome administration that has been in office for 12 long years." But only by "a few, vigorous administration that comes fresh from the people."

"That's why all over the country the people are saying it's time for a change," Dewey said.

Asserting that "as recently as September 1 General Eisenhower renewed his earlier prophecy that Germany could be beaten in 1944 if everyone at home would do his part," G. O. P. nominee continued:

"Yet last Thursday Mr. Roosevelt decided to tell us that the war still had a long way to go.

"What has happened in two months to cancel General Eisenhower's prediction? Mr. Roosevelt has not told us the whole story but part of it we know."

Dewey then criticized the president for taking Morgenthau to Quebec instead of the secretary of state or secretary of war.

incident in the developing Danubian campaign in Russian eyes. Vienna is the more probable real major objective.

More bad news for the Germans came in a Moscow report of the first heavy snows of the winter on the front, presumably in the northeast.

On the western front and in Italy, weather conditions were hampering the Allies. Despite rain-flooded streams and washed-out roadways, however, continuous pressure was being exerted all along both fronts giving the foe no rest anywhere, no chance to regroup his forces.

That was the prime strategic purpose indicated by General Alexander, Allied over-all commander in Italy, in a week-end review of the inch-by-inch fighting to break into the Po valley. It seemed to be the purpose of American and French pressure against the many passes that lead from France to the upper Rhine.

Pinning down of the enemy's thin-drawn forces in preparation for a major offensive, probably in the Dutch theater where greatest results could come most quickly from a break-through beyond the Rhine, seemed to be the main immediate mission of General Eisenhower's troops in the Moselle front and in the Vosges.

The air battle over Merseburg, Nazi oil center, was an outstanding incident of the week because it brought the Luftwaffe out in force the first time in weeks. It suffered crippling losses.

The increasing weight of an air attack on enemy communications serving the north end of the Siegfried line, as well as his oil sources, tended to indicate an impending Allied effort to exploit the clearing of Antwerp harbor.

WILL VOTE

Dewey for president and Bricker for vice-president are instructed that there are two ways to vote: They can vote a straight ticket for Dewey and Bricker electors by simply stamping under the elephant at the top of the Republican ballot, or they can vote a split ticket. In this way they are not to stamp either elephant or rooster but instead stamp in the white space opposite each Republican elector.

A similar process can be followed in voting the straight or split Republican ticket.

The Democratic electors for Louisiana are as follows:

John N. Sandlin, of Webster, and Edward J. Gay of Iberville (both at large); First district, Robert S. Maestri, of Orleans; Second district, W. H. Talbot of Orleans; Third district, Charles Barker of Lafourche; Fourth district, Lamont Seals of Claiborne; fifth district, O. R. Wurster, of Catahoula; Sixth district, Steve Alford, of Tangipahoa; Seventh district, Charles Bourque of St. Landry; and Eighth district, L. P. Roy, Jr., of Avoyelles.

The Republican electors for president and vice-president in this state are as follows:

At large, John P. Conway, of Orleans; at large, Jules Godchaux, of Lafourche; First district, E. P. Richard, of Orleans; Second district, Roy M. Watson, of Orleans; Third district, O. L. Braud, of Lafourche; Fourth district, Clem S. Clarke, of Caddo; Fifth district, J. Wesley Ogden, of Catahoula; Sixth district, C. O. Bullock of Iberville; Seventh district, Bernard B. Franques, of St. Landry; Eighth district, James A. Gannon, of Natchitoches.

Louisiana voters also are to cast their ballots for or against the 21 amendments. These amendments were passed by the recent state legislature but to become effective must be approved at the polls by the electorate.

Voters are urged to make a careful study of each amendment. A somewhat extended description of each amendment was given in the News-Star of last Friday and again in the World of yesterday morning.

Polls will open throughout Ouachita Parish at 6 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. The usual voting places will be utilized and the public is urged to vote early to avoid a last minute rush.

railroad then follow a parallel course down the Irrawaddy valley to Mandalay.

Chinese and British forces advancing southward on roughly parallel lines about 70 miles apart have covered almost one-third of the distance to Mandalay. Repeatedly they have crossed streams and other natural defense points where the Japanese might have put up a stout defense if they had been able or eager, but little opposition was found.

The Chinese walked into the town of Myothit and a small Japanese patrol fled. Thus the Chinese found themselves within easy striking distance of Bhamo.

The Japanese have an excellent river defense position directly across the lines of the Chinese-British advance, but nothing approximating outposts had been encountered.

The Japanese suffered heavy losses on the two Burma fronts this past spring and summer. The British estimated that approximately 50,000 were killed on the Imphal-Kohima-Tiddim front, while Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell estimated he got only slightly fewer in the north Burma campaign which cleared the Ledo road as far as Myitkyina.

Other Japanese were killed by Chinese advancing from Yunnan across the Salween river into northeast Burma. That represents the killing of six or seven whole divisions, without counting the number wounded or dying of disease. The number of prisoners taken would not change the total much.

Hysterical people sometimes lose their sense of smell.

way to the two vital passes of Bussang and Schlucht. Five hundred prisoners were seized yesterday.

The first German counterattack on the First army front was broken, but the enemy came back a second time with tanks and shoved the Americans out of Schmidt and back to positions about a half mile west, a front dispatch said.

Later in the day the Germans mounted a third attack northwest of the town, supported by at least ten tanks. But the Americans held firm at Vossenack, two miles north, and in their lines before Hurtgen, to the north. Seven enemy tanks were destroyed.

Allied fighter-bombers hammered German infantry and tanks while medium bombers prowled the Rhine valley to the east, attacking enemy communication lines.

German lines along the Mark river five miles south of the Maas were crumbling fast, as the Poles threw two more bridgeheads across, captured Terheyden, and fought two miles northward, capturing Wagenburg within three miles of the Maas.

Three miles east, Den Hout, also three miles from the Maas, likewise fell. Americans, British and Canadians to the west vaulted the water barriers and deepened bridgeheads.

In gains of up to two miles, Americans and British striking out from their bridgeheads on the Mark river seized Fijnaart, 4 1-2 miles south of the Willemstad ferry, a second main enemy route of retreat, and pressed on north a half mile, well within artillery range.

Patrols to the east were stabbing out within a mile and a half of Klundert, within three miles of Hollandsch Diep—seaward arm of the Maas—and within five miles of both Moerdijk and Willemstad.

Canadians pounding up on the west captured Steenbergen, nine miles southwest of Willemstad, and broke across the river of the same name. They were within two miles of the Maas outlet here.

On the extreme west, in occupying Nieuw Vossemeer and Kladde opposite the reconquered Dutch island of Tholen, the Canadians found the Germans had pulled out of the area.

To the southwest on Walcheren, all coast guns which can fire on the Schelde estuary approach to Antwerp have been knocked out except for those on two sites northeast of fallen Vlissingen (Flushing) and these were under powerful assault.

In the long-quiet sector of the Maritime Alps, the Allies announced the capture of the French road junction of Sospel, three miles from the Italian frontier, and two nearby villages.

REARGUARDS

Yugoslav partisans at Bitolj, 13 miles north of the Greek border, and at Skoplje, 70 miles farther north, Marshal Tito's headquarters announced. Both towns were declared under siege.

Reconnaissance pilots who went out looking for Germans in Greece were unable to find any, they reported, but in the last 24 hours small columns were spotted near Lake Prespa, just across the border in Albania.

"It is fairly certain that all Germans are now out of Greece," the R. A. F. officer said. "We believe rearguards went over the Greece-Serbian border Thursday night."

In the retreat up the Vardar valley toward Skoplje, the Germans left a trail of blown road and railway bridges to delay the pursuing British but it was not yet certain that the Tommies had crossed into the Balkan country.

The Allied communique mentioned only patrolling "toward the Greek-Yugoslav frontier."

(The British radio said that liberated Greece had lifted all blackout regulations, the office of war information reported.)

The reconquest of Greece ended three years and six months of Nazi rule during which it was estimated 500,000 Greeks died from starvation, executions and mistreatment.

It was on April 6, 1941, that Adolf Hitler struck without warning at the back of the little country, which since October 28 of the previous year had not only held off an Italian invasion but had chased Mussolini's warriors back into Albania.

The British sent in small forces, which were sufficient only to fight a delaying action and on May 2, of that year Prime Minister Churchill announced that the British had withdrawn and the battle for Greece was over.

Greek soldiers and other patriots went underground and kept up forays against their conquerors. When the British came back September 26, landing at Katakolon on the western shores of the Peloponnesus, they found the patriots had the situation well in hand.

RUSSIANS

Soroksar is on the east bank of the Danube due south of the city.

One German front report broadcast late last night said: "For hours now the Russians have been rushing up the roads to Budapest and against the German Danube bridgeheads. The Russians have strong numerical superiority."

Berlin announced that the Russians temporarily had seized Vecses and Ullo, only five and eight miles southeast of Budapest, but said they were then thrown out of those rail towns in fierce counterattacks.

French radio broadcasts said Red army tank spearheads already had broken into Budapest's suburbs, but this was not confirmed by Moscow. However, dispatches from the Soviet capital and Berlin broadcasts said Russian artillery and planes were pumping explosives into the capital.

A Budapest dispatch relayed by Berlin said Soviet planes roared constantly over the Danube city, bombing and machine-gunning streets clogged with German troop, tank and gun columns and knots of frantic civilians.

Long caravans of vehicles jammed with fugitives and their scanty possessions flowed westward across the Danube bridges out of the city as German reinforcements passed them en route to the battle line in the city's outskirts, the broadcast said.

"Other districts of the city, however, seem almost deserted," said the Nazi agency's report. "Many are staying indoors except for some dozens in queues before bread and tobacco shops."

Berlin said Soviet troops had tried to cross the Danube at Dunafoldvar, 43 miles below Budapest, in an outflanking move on the capital.

Soviet front dispatches said large German tank formations had been wiped out in the Red army's northward push between the Danube and Tisza rivers. Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's troops were engaged in an operation similar to that outside Warsaw—whittling down German resistance east of the Hungarian capital before hurling their full weight on Budapest.

think I even heard somebody say those 'tired, quarrelsome' old men e waging such a victorious war— it is time for a change.

Well—if it is time for a change—way to get it in this democracy by means of votes. Whether I win se, I want to see a turn-out next sday of the biggest vote in our erican history.

nd that means at least fifty milvotes."

e related how boys of all religious and racial origins were fighting now for their country and declared it "our duty to them to make sure that, big as this country is, there is no room in it for racial or religious intolerance—and that there is no room for snobbers."

Mr. Roosevelt conceded that his administration had made mistakes. But he said he thanked God it could not be charged that it made the mistake of "forgetting our sacred obligation to the American people."

For veterans, when they come trudging home from fighting fronts, he promised "honest, self-respecting jobs," a real chance to settle on their own land for those seeking farms, a fair opportunity to others to go into business.

He swung, then, into his discussion of a party which he said works both sides of the street, saying it was "a party which has one candidate making campaign promises of all kinds of added government expenditures in the east."

For the second time during the day —he had done it earlier at Springfield —the chief executive gave his answer to Republican contentions that he had broken a 1940 campaign promise made here in Boston.

We got into the war because the Japanese attacked us and Germany and Italy declared war on us, Mr. Roosevelt said, adding:

"I am sure that any real American would have chosen, as this government did, to fight when our own soil was made the object of a sneak attack. As for myself, under the same circumstances, I would choose to do the same thing—again and again and again."

Tracing the administration's pre-Pearl Harbor program, the chief executive said America was better prepared for this war than for any in history, with 2,000,000 men in service at the time of Pearl Harbor, war production rolling, the Navy building, and the nation equipped with "spiritual preparedness."

Furthermore, he said, many fortifications have been erected at home since 1933 to protect bank deposits, living standards, labor rights, natural resources, and to guard against unemployment and old age hazards and against inflation and runaway prices.

"These fortifications," he declared, "are now manned by zealous defenders—and these defenders are not communists and they are not fossils."

"Can the citizens of the nation now afford to turn over these bulwarks to the men who raised every possible obstacle to their original construction?"

Now, the president said, America faces the complex problem of building with her Allies a strong world structure of peace.

"I believe," he said, "that we Americans will want the peace to be built by men who have shown foresight rather than hindsight."

And for the future he foresaw an America richer than any other nation in skilled workers, engineers, farmers, businessmen and scientists.

"It will be an America," he said, "in which there is a genuine partnership between the farmer and the worker and the businessman—in which there are abundant jobs and an expanding economy of peace. . . . I say we must wage a peace to attract the highest hopes and the most competent hands and hearts.

"That, my friends, is the concept I have of the meaning of total victory.

"And that conception is founded upon faith—faith in the unlimited destiny and the unconquerable spirit of America."

Coolness, darkness and dryness are three chief essentials for a good storage place.

SLAM-BANG

America's voting millions—upwards of 45,000,000 of them—already have made up their minds whether they want to keep Roosevelt or substitute Dewey.

In the first wartime election since 1864 it has been a choice primarily between:

The older, experienced Roosevelt, who has had a hand on the tiller for a dozen years and wants to keep it there.

The younger, energetic New York governor, who over and over again has chanted: "It's time for a change."

There have been other issues, of course. But fundamentally, they all are compressed into one: Will it be Roosevelt or Dewey to bring the war to a successful end, to represent America in councils of peace-loving nations, and to undertake a peacetime program at home aimed at giving jobs to everybody?

In a campaign which Mr. Roosevelt has called the strangest he's ever seen, the American people, perhaps as never before in history, have had to pick between men, between personalities.

The campaign has been an acid, name-calling, hard-punching affair, cut in many respects to the pattern of 1940.

As was the case four years ago, the Republican nominee started out early. In July and August Dewey busied himself with building up his party organization. A conference with the 26 Republican governors in St. Louis was the high point of this preparatory phase.

Then, on September 7, he mounted the stump. He told a Philadelphia audience that the Roosevelt administration planned to keep a large army after the war because it feared there would be no jobs for veterans. The New Deal, he declared, is "afraid of peace."

Traveling fast and far, Dewey kept blasting charge after charge at the New Deal. In the last full week of campaigning he was hammering at the theme that the Democratic leadership had sold out to the C. I. O. political action committee and that "special privilege" in the party was for sale through "One Thousand Club" membership.

Mr. Roosevelt, as in 1940 had announced he would not campaign in the "usual" sense—except to give "facts" to the voters when he thought they should have them or to correct opposition "misrepresentations."

And, on September 23, he made the first of seven major campaign speeches. He used for a forum, as he did in 1940, a dinner of the International Teamsters Union. And he accused the opposition of campaign falsifications.

From then on the gloves were off. Charges touched off counter-charges. Mr. Roosevelt in his next-to-last speech Thursday night accused the Republicans of threatening to "build a party spite fence between us and the peace" by implying that congressional Republicans would cooperate only with a president of their own party in setting up security machinery. He struck also at "whisperings and rumorings."

Democrats and Republicans alike hopped the political fence as the campaign progressed. The defection of Senator Joseph H. Ball, the young Minnesota Republican, created a stir.

Republicans hit at the Roosevelt administration as tired old and quarrelsome, and Democrats retorted that it was an administration whose experience was needed in these troubled days.

Republicans said the administration had wrecked the support of Commonweals and Sidney Hillman's C. I. O. political action committee. Democrats countered that Dewey had solicited and received the support of both Hillman and Communists in running for the job of district attorney in New York.

But both Dewey and Roosevelt called for programs to provide full employment and prosperity when peace returns. Each urged American participation in a world security organization.

Dewey said there should be no "reservation that would require our representatives to return to Congress for authority every time he had to make a decision."

Roosevelt said a United Nations council must have power to act quickly and decisively for peace, using force if need be, and that the American representative "must be endowed in advance" by Congress "with authority to act."

Not once did the chief executive mention his Republican opponent by name—again following his 1940 practice. Instead he talked of some Republican orators or spoke of Republican campaign arguments.

If the president's health was an issue, he didn't argue the matter—in words. But, bareheaded and coatless, he spoke at frosty outdoor party rallies in Philadelphia and Chicago and in New York he rode for four hours in an open car in a soaking rain.

Most of the campaigning for the Democratic ticket was left to Senator Harry S. Truman of Missouri, the vice-presidential nominee, who made an 8,000-mile circuit of the country. Equally active was Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, Dewey's running mate.

And, of course, in an election in which the country is selecting 31 governors, 35 senators and a complete set of congressmen, there have been some other prominent people traveling the campaign trails.

Governors are trying for the senate, and senators for governorships. In West Virginia, Matthew M. Neely, formerly a senator and now governor, is seeking election to the house.

Up for reelection are such prominent senators as Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic Whip Lister Hill of Alabama, Chairman Walter F. George of the finance committee and Chairman Robert F. Wagner of the banking committee.

After another term also is Senator Robert A. Taft, chairman of the G. O. P. Senate steering committee and of the Republican convention's platform committee. Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota Republican, who has been classified as an isolationist by President Roosevelt, is battling Democratic Governor John Moses for retention of his senate seat.

Among the governors trying to shift to the Senate are Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Henry F. Schricker of Ohio.

Two Democratic senators, Mon C. Wallgren of Washington and Samuel D. Jackson of Indiana, are after governors' chairs. Jackson was the permanent chairman of the Democratic national convention.

remaining foothold on Leyte island," the communique added.

These plains curve in a semi-circle about four miles wide around American-threatened Ormoc, ending in the hills.

Erection of the Japanese positions appeared to be an attempt to prepare a last stand at Ormoc, the final major Japanese base on Leyte.

Fighting along Carigara bay was on a local scale, despite its intensity, and does not mean the Americans have contacted the potentially formidable Japanese mechanized column moving northward from Ormoc, reported Associated Press War Correspondent Murlin Spencer.

A headquarters spokesman said there has been no report the two forces have been in contact.

Newly-arrived P-40 fighters joined the intensive American aerial attack on the convoys moving through Ormoc valley, strafing and divebombing the Japanese.

Elements of the 7th Division in the central Leyte valley near the east coast, readily repulsed Japanese infiltration movements west of Dagami.

Elsewhere the battlefronts were quiet. No report has been made for several days on movements of another 7th division element which reached the west coast at Baybay, 26 miles south of Ormoc.

The Japanese continued to launch what the communique called "harassing" night air raids. Damage was negligible but the assaults, aided by brilliant moonlight, were made at 15 to 40 minute intervals by from one to eight planes.

What these planes lacked in numbers they compensated in persistency and cunning, in assaulting shipping, airfields and shore installations from dusk until dawn.

One Japanese plane was shot down during these nerve-racking raids which apparently are intended, partially at least, to interrupt construction of American installations.

The Japanese landed their reinforcements at Ormoc Wednesday night and Thursday morning and immediately dispatched the first of several convoys northward along the Ormoc valley road.

REGISTERED BULL GETS 1ST PLACE

The registered Jersey bull, owned by Ernest Venable of Monroe, placed first in the 12 to 18-month-old class of registered Jersey bulls at the Louisiana State Fair in Shreveport, La., in 4-H Club competition, stated E. A. Fulmer, assistant county agent, Ouachita parish.

This animal is a two-star bull and was purchased from P. R. Smith of Joplin, Missouri by Ernest and he plans to start a registered herd of his own.

A beautiful registered Jersey heifer, owned by John Landrum Jr., of Monroe, placed third in the 12 to 24-month-old class and a fine registered Jersey heifer owned by Ernest Venable placed sixth in the same class at the state fair. These animals were all entered in 4-H Club competition.

CLARK REMOVED AS SOUTHEASTERN HEAD

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Dr. J. Leon Clark, third president of Southeastern Louisiana College at Hammond, yesterday was removed from this position at a state board of education meeting here. Dr. George W. Bond, dean of the college and former president of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, was named acting president.

Clark's removal was recommended by a special committee, which reported it had made an exhaustive investigation into the affairs of Southeastern and heard numerous witnesses.

The board voted to pay Clark's salary as president until July 1, 1945, or until he obtains another position, but did not act on a committee recommendation that he be given a position elsewhere in the Louisiana educational system. State Superintendent of Education John E. Coxe said he had no plans for offering Clark another position in Louisiana, but will try to help him obtain another job.

The board also removed the college executive committee, composed of A. W. Spiller of Hammond and H. J. Leonard of Ponchatoula, but did not appoint successors. Mrs. Margaret Waldrep was ordered reinstated as instructor in Spanish. The board took no action on appeal of two students, Virginia Langston and Lillian Kent, for reinstatement of their Harris scholarships, discontinuance of which was ordered by Clark. The appeals were referred to Dr. Joseph Gibson, director of higher education, and to Acting President Bond.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY
Candidate for Judge of the Fourth Judicial District Court

Several weeks ago, when I announced my intention of becoming a candidate for the office of District Judge of the Fourth Judicial District, composed of the Parishes of Ouachita and Morehouse, I expected to be able to start an active campaign shortly thereafter, however, the unusually heavy criminal docket that developed subsequent to my announcement, has prevented me from carrying out my original plan.

Trial of criminal cases which the law requires to be tried before a jury, will begin in Ouachita Parish on Monday, November 6th. Two weeks will be required to complete the trial of cases now on the docket. As soon as this term of criminal court is over, I shall endeavor to see each and every voter in the district in person. In the meantime, I earnestly request all my friends and supporters to assist me in carrying on my campaign.

The election will not be called until the first of next year, as Judge Frank W. Hawthorne will continue to serve as District Judge until December 31, 1944, at which time he will go to the Supreme Court of the State of Louisiana, and a special election will then be called to fill the vacancy. The date of the election will probably be fixed for sometime during the month of February, 1945.

As most of you know, I have been engaged in the practice of law for the past twenty years. I practiced civil law for ten years, was Assistant District Attorney for eight years, and have served as District Attorney for two years. I now seek promotion to the Judgeship, a position for which I feel my past experience has amply qualified me in every respect.

SELMAN MEETS KEESLER IN RETURN BATTLE AT BILOXI

Both Teams Primed To Settle Previous Deadlock In Game Today

Hot on the trail for revenge for the crippling tie score of their last brawl in Monroe at the Northeast Junior College stadium on October 14, the Selman Field Cyclones entrained yesterday for Biloxi, Miss., to play a return engagement with the Keesler Field Fliers. The contest will begin at 2:30 this afternoon in Biloxi.

The Fliers have been unbeaten so far this season, but twice tied. Selman tied them in their last meeting 19-19, and last week the Keesler squad was tied 7-7 by the strong Fort Benning Fourth Infantry eleven in Doughboy stadium, Fort Benning, Ga.

Both service teams are crippled for today's battle.

Selman Field will be moving into the fray without the services of Dub Mattis, ex-Tulane All-American mention, and Blackie Caldwell, former teammate of Joe Riley of All-American and Rose Bowl fame, while playing for the University of Alabama. Both Mattis and Caldwell are recuperating from knee injuries incurred at the last Cyclone-Flier meeting in Monroe.

Keesler, although claiming to be at their best strength since the 19-19 tie with Selman, will be without the offensive power of two of their key backfield players. Kimble Bradley, one of the Fliers' best blockers and a cagey field general, along with Jim Strausbaugh, former professional gridder with the Columbus, Ohio, Bulls and once one of the leading scorers of the Big Ten Conference, will be missing at Keesler's tailback slot due to injuries received in Monroe, October 14.

Both coaches, Clyde Funderburk of Selman, and George Huffman, of Keesler, claim they are going to throw everything in the books at each other in an attempt to smash the first of two deadlocks for both teams this season. Selman Field moved into their second tie in Monroe October 21, when they fought to a no score finish with the Galveston army air base Islanders.

This will be the grid classic of the year for both teams. Not only will they be trying for a smash of the deadlock, but the ultimate success record for the 1944 season may well rest on the outcome of the battle. If the Cyclones prove strong enough to win this game, they will probably have the strength to go through the rest of the season with a clean record. For Keesler, the picture is much the same. The national rating of both teams will be at stake this afternoon at Biloxi. Latest Williamson ratings classed the two teams on an almost equal par with Keesler holding a slight edge. Selman was listed as 27th among the nation's service grid teams with a percentage score of 83.8. Keesler Field moved up the ladder for six places to make them 21st on the list, but their percentage score was only 85.6.

The Cyclones will have to contend with most of the same men at this meeting as they did before.

At the halfback assignments, Coach Huffman will probably have Herman Rohrig and Joe Williams operating from the left and right sides respectively, while the fullback job will belong to Eddie Olds.

Lining up in the forward wall for Keesler will be Bob Witt and Pete Schneider at ends, Tom Byrd and Don Gray at the tackle posts, Charlie Churchill and Jim Emery at guards and John Ciavarra as the pivot man. This is the same line that started against Selman in Monroe.

Coach Funderburk, for Selman, will start a forward wall that averages 200 pounds. At ends, Bob Kennedy and Robert D'Angelo will sally forth for the passes. Jim Cutrone and Melvin will man the tackle positions, Bernard Crumpton and Hank Agusiewicz at guards, and Jim Abernathy at center, complete the line.

Calling the signals for Selman will be Don Harris, and other backs will be Billy Hughes and Buz Entsminger at the left and right halfback assignments respectively and Bill Harbour at fullback.

T. C. U. WINS FROM CHATHAM FIELD, 19-7

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Bringing the famous Southwest Conference razzle-dazzle to the Atlantic seaboard, Texas Christian University uncorked three touchdown drives in a single period this afternoon to defeat the Chatham Field Blockbusters 19 to 7.

Coach Dutch Meyers' Horned Frogs handed the Army Air Base a bewildering assortment of aerials, end runs and straight line plays but except for the scoring spree in the second quarter ran up against stubborn resistance.

After playing in Chatham territory most of the first period, T. C. U. went all out in the second. Hadaway flipped a 32-yard pass to Chronister on the 12 and the big end slipped over for the first score. The extra point placement try was blocked.

Three plays later, Cox intercepted a Chatham pass and Hadaway again heaved the ball, this time 44 yards to Gibson, for another tally. Mullins place-kicked the extra point. The final Frog touchdown came on a line buck from inside the five by Jesse Mason.

Chatham bounced back in the third period and scored on an end zone pass from Bill Guice to James Moran, former Fordham star. Moran place-kicked the extra point.

WOLFPACK WINS

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 4.—(AP)—North Carolina State's Wolfpack made it three straight over Old Dominion teams today by defeating a determined young Virginia Military Institute team, 21-6. Coach Beattie Feathers' well-coached eleven crashed in on a blocked punt, a bit of fine broken-field running and a long pass followed by a line buck to tally three times on Alumni field.

GEORGIA TECH UPSET IN CONFERENCE PLAY

By Associated Press

Georgia Tech's Rambling Wreck cracked up before the explosive power of Duke University today, 13-19, and the Engineers toppled from the nation's undefeated and untied teams in one of the major football-upsets of the day.

Tech was seeking its sixth straight win and Duke had been beaten in its last four starts. They battled before a crowd of 30,000 at Durham, N. C.

The Engineers fell from the country's select list along with Notre Dame, which was beaten by Navy 32-13. Two weeks ago Tech edged Navy 17-15. Tech and Notre Dame meet in Atlanta November 25.

Mississippi State's Maroons took over the Southeastern conference lead and loomed as a bowl contender by pouncing on a jittery Kentucky team, 26-0, at Memphis. The Maroons recovered everyone of seven Kentucky fumbles. It was the fifth straight win for Mississippi State and its second conference victory.

An underdog Georgia eleven upset a vaunted Alabama team at Birmingham, 14-7, as Stan Nestorak, a substitute halfback, ripped the Tide line to pieces in the third period and scored the winning touchdown in the last quarter. It was the second conference win for Georgia against one loss.

Mississippi's youngsters were clipped by Jackson Air Base at Oxford, Miss., 0-10, for their fifth loss this season, while Auburn trounced Presbyterian College of South Carolina, 57-0, at Auburn.

The University of Florida scored a 13-0 triumph over the University of Miami Friday night. Tulane was idle.

WAKE FOREST BEATS CLEMSON, 13 TO 7

WAKE FOREST, N. C., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Wake Forest's high stepping Deacons, their eyes on a New Year's Day bowl bid, kept their undefeated and untied record intact here today by tripping a strong Clemson team 13 to 7 in a Southern Conference encounter that gave the Deacons undisputed possession of the circuit lead.

The Deacons, who have rolled up seven straight victories, tallied in the first and third periods, big Rock Brinkley adding 12 points to his season total of 66 points by plunging over for both touchdowns.

ANOTHER DORSEY STARS

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Tommy Dorsey, who wore Brown's football spangles last season, returned today to pace the Coast Guard Academy's Cadets to a 20-0 victory over the Bruins. Dorsey accounted for two of the victors' touchdowns with 65 and 10 yard runs. It was the Cadets' first win over a major rival this season.

IOWA TRIMS NEBRASKA

IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Iowa Hawks, given a tremendous lift by substitute Nelson Smith's offensive thrusts, swept into the football victory column for the first time this season by crushing the Nebraska Cornhuskers, 27 to 6 today.

MAROONS DEFEAT KENTUCKY, 26-0

Mississippi State Makes Best Of Wildcats' Mistakes To Win Easily

MEMPHIS Tenn., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Pouncing upon every mistake of the opposition, Mississippi State's Maroons crashed over a jittery Kentucky team here today, 26 to 0, for their fifth consecutive triumph.

In registering their second Southeast Conference victory and thereby assuming the league's lead, Coach Allyn McKeen's bowl-conscious gridders recovered every one of seven Kentucky fumbles during the afternoon—all but two of them in Wildcat territory.

The first two Kentucky miscues came in the first three minutes of play and led directly to Mississippi State's two touchdowns. A third Wildcat fumble shortly afterward stopped the blue grass boys' only real scoring threat of the game, and a fourth set the Maroons on another march that ended with a Kentucky defensive stand on the Wildcats' four.

Kentucky Tobie Thomas lost the ball on the first scrimmage of the contest, Hilary Hornic recovering for State on the Wildcat 24. Tom (Shorty) McWilliams, the Maroons' freshman star and leading scorer of the conference, raced 22 yards to the Kentucky one-yard stripe, from where Stan Rhoades took it over for the first score. Tom Burress missed his first place-kick try in 17 attempts.

A minute later Kentucky's Thomas fumbled on his own 13, and in one play Floyd bulled his way across for another State score, Burress converted with a place-kick.

Near the end of the initial period, Kentucky showed its only real power of the game Jim Parrott and Dick Reid moved from their own 20 to reach the Maroon 23, where Bill Hildebrand scooped in Beal's fumble.

Three minutes after the start of the second stanza, a holding penalty set Kentucky back on its three, from where Norman Klein punted to Doug Colsior, at mid-field, the Maroon back returning to the Wildcat 34. Colston heaved a pass to Owen Moore over the goal. But Burress missed the try for point.

Mississippi State marched to its fourth score right after the second half kick-off. Starting on their own 38, McWilliams and Rhoades reeled off three first downs. Passes from McWilliams to Hildebrand and Bob McCracken completed two more and carried to the five. From there McWilliams went over, and Burress kicked the extra point.

SELMAN WOLVERINE TEAM PLAYS TODAY

The Selman Field Wolverines, Section F Negro grid team, open their season today in New Orleans when they tangle with an eleven from Jackson Barracks.

Forced to postpone the start of their 1944 football season, the Wolverines have been practicing daily since Sept. 1, and will move into the New Orleans battle without benefit of a warm up game to test their strategy.

According to Capt. Leslie Perry, coach of the squad, today's contest will really be in the nature of a primer to prepare the Wolverines for their hardest scheduled fight of the season on Armistice Day, Nov. 11, when they tangle with the powerful Southern university Negro team. Southern is credited with having the strongest grid team among Negro schools in the south.

Selman's starting lineup will consist of Jimmy Ridgell and Henry Bessilieu at ends, Alex Trammel and George Stearns at tackle, George Taylor and Albert Eaddy at guards, Willie Brown, former Syracuse university star, will open at center.

YALE COPS 6-0 WIN AGAINST DARTMOUTH

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A neat hunk of strategy which upset a nifty 25-yard touchdown gallop by Paul Walker, Yale's big boy blue, enabled the unbeaten and untied Elis to blank Dartmouth 6-0 today and record their fifth straight football win.

The season's biggest Yale bowl crowd of 40,000 saw the ancient Ivy league rivals put on one of their typical shows, with the Blue emerging the victor in this 28th fracas only after halting a furious Dartmouth assault in the dying moments of the contest.

TENNESSEE STATE WINS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Scoring twice in the opening period and again in the third, Tennessee State upset a previously unbeaten Florida A. and M. eleven here today, 19 to 7. A fumble recovered behind the goal line accounted for the Florida score.

BUCKEYES WHIP INDIANA

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Ohio State University chalked up its sixth straight football victory of the season today by smashing Indiana University 21 to 7 before 56,360 fans. The Bucks completely outplayed in the first quarter, roared back to score in each of the last three periods.

WAVE OF UPSETS MARKS SATURDAY FOOTBALL TILTS

Notre Dame, Georgia Tech, Alabama Among Those To Taste First Defeat

By Jack Hand

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Navy's potential power finally exploded in all its might today to crush Notre Dame's previously unbeaten and untied Irishmen under a five-touchdown wave in the No. 1 game of a day marked by a wave of upsets.

Army, Ohio State, Randolph Field, Mississippi State, Wake Forest, Norman Navy and Yale managed to protect unmarred records but Georgia Tech, Michigan State, Oklahoma Aggies, Alabama and Iowa State were among those to taste their first bitter dose of defeat.

Superior power up front made Navy's machine click 32-13 while the Irish, after missing an early chance, were smothered at every turn on offense until they took to the air in desperation in the second half. Clyde Scott, Middie fullback from Smackover, Ark., scored two of the touchdowns and was a demon on defense but line play told the story for 67,000 fans.

Army barely got a workout for next week's Notre Dame game by rolling over Villanova, 83-0, for their biggest score in six victories and the third largest total in Cadet history. Glenn Davis added three touchdowns to boost his total to 72 points.

Ohio State had to come from behind for the first time but took charge after the first 15 minutes to make it six in a row at Indiana's expense, 21-7, before 56,380. Southern California, twice-tied but still dodging its first loss, eased out San Diego Navy, 28-21.

Outside of the Navy-Notre Dame result, probably the most surprising score of the day was Duke's 19-13 wreck of the Georgia Tech Engineers. Beaten by Penn, North Carolina Navy, Navy and Army, the Blue Devils deflated bowl hopes of Bill Alexander's boys by coming from behind twice to win in the last quarter.

Something had to give when Norman Navy and Oklahoma Aggies, two perfect record teams met, and it was the Aggies who gave way, falling before the Navy Fliers, 15-0. Tulsa suffered its straight defeat in two weeks after a long string of victories, by bowing to the Iowa Seahawks, 47-27, rated No. 7 in the country last week.

Randolph Field continued its wild point-scoring advance, 68-0, over North Texas Aggies; Mississippi State flattened Kentucky, 26-0, and Yale just squeezed past oft-walloped Dartmouth, 6-0. Wake Forest's Deacons kept their eyes on a New Year's day bowl shot by tripping Clemson, 13-7.

Michigan State's string of triumphs was broken by Missouri, 13-7; Alabama, tied but previously unbeaten, fell before Georgia, 14-7, as Stan Nestorak, a sub halfback, caught fire in the last two periods.

Iowa State's Big Six title hopes and unmarred slate were shattered by Oklahoma, 12-7.

Michigan handed Pennsylvania its worst beating of the George Munger regime, 41-19, in an intersectional fray before 48,000 at Franklin field. Other standout eastern results included Cornell's 25-7 nod over Columbia, Penn State's 41-0 rout of Syracuse, Coast Guard Academy's 20-0 decision over Brown and West Virginia's 6-0 edge over Temple.

In the midwest Minnesota and Northwestern battled to a 14-14 tie; Purdue smothered Wisconsin, 35-0, and Iowa earned its first decision at Nebraska's expense, 27-6.

South Carolina topped North Carolina in their traditional struggle, 6-0; Texas Christian downed Chatham Field, 19-7; Texas walloped Southern Methodist, 34-7; Arkansas squeezed past Texas Aggies, 7-6; North Carolina State beat V. M. I., 21-6; Jackson army air base blanked Mississippi, 10-0, and Texas Tech trimmed Rice, 13-7.

Alameda Coast Guard knocked off California, 12-6, in another far western surprise; Colorado smothered New Mexico, 39-0, and Denver and Utah struggled to a scoreless deadlock.

IOWA SEAHAWKS BEAT TULSA BY 47-27 SCORE

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The galloping backs of the Iowa Seahawks clattered through Tulsa's defenses to four touchdowns before the Hurricanes could manage a serious threat today, then stood off a fierce Tulsa rally to win a 47-27 football thriller.

With Dell Taylor faking at his best and Bob Sullivan, Don Samuels and Bob Smith slicing through the Tulsa tackles and off the ends for long gains, the Sailors smashed into a 27-0 lead at the intermission that left no doubt as to the final outcome.

But the Hurricane, picking up power to out-score the Seahawks in the second half, made it an interesting contest as Freshman Bobby Jack Stuart pitched three touchdown passes and Fullback Camp Wilson returned a kick-off 94 yards for a fourth score.

The slippery turf had no visible effect on the smooth-working Seahawks' T-offensive. For three periods the Sailor backs, behind near-perfect down field blocking, scored every time they gained possession of the ball. The free-wheeling Samuels accounted for three of the Seahawk touchdowns, although he gave Taylor, a former Tulsa player, the honor of scoring one of them.

CORNELL SCORES 25-7 WIN OVER COLUMBIA

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Cornell used passes, plunges, end-around plays and interceptions today to score touchdowns against an out-manned Columbia team, the big red coming behind for a 25 to 7 victory as the Lions absorbed their third loss of the campaign.

Columbia scored in the first minute and 20 second but that was the last time Columbia was in the game, however, for the angered Big Red team came storming back for two touchdowns in the same session.

FLIERS BEAT MARINES

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Jacksonville Naval Air Station Fliers ran rough-shod over the Marines from Cherry Point, N. C., for an easy 33-0 victory here today.

PORKERS SHADE AGGIES, 7 TO 6

Arkansas Upsets Texas A. And M. By Capitalizing On Breaks

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov 4.—(AP)—Fierce-fighting Arkansas stabbed through the air for a third-period touchdown and a 7-6 victory over fumbling Texas A. and M. today to storm from the Southwest conference cellar and shove the Cadets out of the championship race, before 6,000.

The alert Razorbacks capitalized on every break and it was a deflected pass by Aggie Hub Ellis that gave the Giants of the Ozarks their scoring chance.

The Cadets took a six-point lead in the first period after recovering an Arkansas fumble on the Porker 31, but it was the only costly mistake the methodical visitors committed.

Arkansas wasn't making much headway with a running game and it had begun to appear the game would end 6-0. Then, Bobby Goff, whose booming punts featured Aggie play for the day, had quick-kicked to Louis Bayne with the latter skittering back to the Arkansas 45.

Gordon Long pitched a pass into the flat and the eager Ellis jumped at the ball, barely tipping it. Alton Baldwin grabbed the ball out of the air and waded to the Aggie 29. Then Long ran back, took careful aim and let fly to Mike Schumchyk, giant Arkansas end, who gathered in the ball in the end zone for a touchdown. Jim Young, hefty tackle, sent the pigskin through the goal posts and Arkansas had won its first game from Texas A. and M. in seven years and also had scored on the Aggies for the first time in six.

The victory kept Arkansas clinging to a faint hope of capturing the conference championship. The Porkers now have won one, tied one and lost one.

NORMAN NAVY ZOOMERS HALT OKLAHOMA AGGIES

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Norman, Okla., Navy Zoomers today slogged to their fifth straight football victory of the season, 15-0, over Oklahoma A. & M., which saw its dreams of an undefeated season mired down on muddy Lewis field.

The edge taken from their vaunted speed by a field made soggy by a two-day rain, Bob Fenimore and his cowboy mates failed to score as they lost their first game in six starts.

GEORGIA UPSETS ALABAMA, 14-7

Substitute Halfback Leads Bulldogs To Win Over Favored Crimsons

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A determined Georgia eleven, decidedly the underdog, scaled the heights here today to upset a vaunted Alabama team, 14-7.

Stan Nestorak, a substitute halfback, sat out the first half but came in to start the third period and ripped the heavy Crimson line to pieces. He set up the first touchdown with a series of line plunges and then scored the winning tally in the last quarter.

Alabama scored first, after recovering a Georgia fumble at the Bulldog six with Fred Grant knifing through. Hugh Morrow's placement made it 7-0, where the half ended.

Shortly after the third period got under way, Don Wells punted 70 yards to Alabama's eight. Harry Gilmer kicked out to the Georgia 36, and the Bulldogs marched 65 to a score, with Nestorak leading the way and Charlie Smith going over from the four. Billy Bryan's placement made it 7-7.

Another short punt by Gilmer which went out at the Georgia 29, preceded a fourth quarter scoring drive by the Bulldogs. Nestorak went over from the one. Bryan again concerted, making it 14-7.

The first downs favored Georgia, 14 to 13, and the Bulldogs also lead in rushing, 221 yards to 139. The Tide had an edge in passing, completng nine out of 20 for 141 yards, while Georgia connected with five out of ten for 66 yards.

The loss was Alabama's first this year, after two ties with Louisiana State and Tennessee.

TEXAS RALLIES TO WIN FROM S. M. U., 34 TO 7

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The University of Texas Steers spotted the Mustangs of Southern Methodist one touchdown and then came from behind today to overpower their Southwest Conference opponent 34-7.

The victory, sparked by the Steers' ace passer, injured Bobby Layne, who entered the game at crucial moments, eclipsed Southern Methodist's already dim hopes for a conference title and retained a slim chance for the Longhorns at the crown.

NEVILLE ELEVEN HAS OPEN DATE

Tigers Book Game With Ferriday; No Injuries After Winnfield Tilt

The Neville High School Tigers have an open date on their football slate this week-end, a game scheduled for Friday with the Clarks Lumberjacks having been cancelled, Coach Devon Payne announced last night.

But the erasing of the Clarks date did not shorten the locals' fall campaign as the Ferriday High School Bulldogs have been added to the schedule and will be hosts to the Neville boys at Ferriday on November 17.

Neville will end its season the following week against the strong Bastrop Rams here.

The Tigers were back home yesterday after scoring a 27-0 triumph over the Winnfield High School Wildcats at Winnfield, and Coach Payne said his charges came out of the game in good condition.

The Winnfield scrap was played in a steady rain that restricted play to a ground-game in which the Neville line excelled.

Center Hugh Smith and Tackle George Roach, a pair of the finest linemen the locals have had in three or four years, were particularly outstanding and gave their teammates scoring opportunities and kept the Winn parish boys' backs to the wall by blocking six punts, each accounting for three blocks with the help of other linemen.

Neville touchdowns were scored by "Scotty" Daniels and Charlie Brown, regular backs, and a pair of reserve ball-carriers, Jeff Dollar and Brooks Dawkins. Each back accounted for one touchdown, all on running plays within easy striking distance of the Winnfield goal. George Luffey, quarterback, added one extra point, and the locals rounded out their total score with two points by way of a safety.

Coach Payne used 20 boys in the game.

OLE MISS LOSES TO JACKSON BASE

Army Air Field Trips Conference Eleven By 10-To-0 Score

UNIVERSIAY, Miss., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Jackson Army Air Base staged two goal line stands to defeat the Ole Miss Rebels 10 to 0 today before a homecoming crowd of 2000.

The Bombers struck once in the second quarter when Leo Costa kicked a field goal from the fifteen yard line and again in the third when Andretich heaved a 41 yard pass to Leuken who went 31 for the score. Costa kicked the extra point.

The Air Base held on the two yard line. In the first quarter after an exchange of kick Little Rex Pearce took Andretich's punt on his own 28, reversed his field twice, got out into the open and was hit from behind on the 2. From then on it was a case of too much Bomber line. The Air Base took over after four plays on the five.

With five minutes to go in the first half, Fesko intercepted a pass by Bruce on the 28 and went to the 17. Three plays took it to the 13 when Costa sent a low wobbly kick over the bar for three points.

The Air Base took the opening kick-off in the second half and drove to the 20 where Bob McCain stopped three straight plays, and the Rebels took over. Hooker took the ball on a fast opening play and went 65 yards to the 20 where Kramer shoved off three blockers to bring him down.

Hooker and Rose alternated to the ten, and Rose took it to the 2 where again Jackson held for downs. After an exchange of kicks Andretich made his pass to Leuken good and the Rebels were out of the ball game. It was great line play on the part of the Air Base eleven which spelled the difference in the two teams.

Shaffer and Hubert were the outstanding linemen on the field along with Bob McCain, and captain for the Rebels. The Bombers had two great backs in Andretich and Fesko. While Rex Pearce ran the Jackson line all over the field by constantly threatening to be away for a score. The Rebels drove to the 15 yard line in the last five minutes of the fourth quarter. While Jackson had only two scoring changes, not getting inside the 20 yard line except on the scoring plays.

LACK OF RAIN HINDERS STATE'S DUCK HUNTERS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Major James Brown, director of the wildlife and fisheries division of the State Department of Conservation, said today that "unless considerable rain comes soon" ducks and geese flying south will bypass Louisiana feeding grounds and Louisiana hunters.

"It is evident," Brown said after returning from an inspection tour of the state's coastal waters, "that 75 per cent of the feeding and hunting waters in the principal duck and geese feeding areas are too dry to hold the birds for any length of time."

Brown said the migratory birds are plentiful and "hundreds of thousands" of them already have entered this state fleeing northern freezes but he believed the continued drought along the coast will cause them to resume flight for more plentiful feeding waters in Mississippi, Alabama, Texas or as far away as Mexico.

He termed the conditions "the most serious shortage of feeding waters for ducks and geese in this area in two decades."

RANDOLPH FIELD WHIPS N. A. T. C. BY 68-0 SCORE

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Randolph Field's powerful Ramblers toyed with North Texas Agricultural College Saturday on the post gridiron, rolling up a 68-0 victory in a shortened 46-minute game.

Playing their second and third stringers, the Ramblers wasted no time in getting under way. Dippy Evans breaking off tackle on the first play of the game to romp 52 yards for a touchdown. Bill Causey kicked the extra point, and the rout was on.

In only one instance did N. A. T. C. have an edge on Randolph Field. That was in the first downs and the Aggies had an eight to six for the Ramblers. Randolph had 292 yards on the ground and 148 in the air, while the Aggies had a minus 55 on the ground and 133 in the air.

Twice more the Ramblers tallied in the first quarter, Bobby Cifers running a punt back up the slippery, muddy gridiron 35 yards. Evans cracked the middle of the line for 22 yards and another with Causey kicking both extra points.

FROSH PASSES TENNESSEE TO 13-0 WIN OVER L. S. U.

Tailback Buster Stevens Hurls Touchdown Aerials To Beat Tigers

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Tennessee's Volunteers kept their undefeated record for the season intact here tonight by bowling over the Louisiana State Tigers 13-0 on two touchdown passes by Freshman Tailback Buster Stephens.

Both touchdowns came after Tennessee had intercepted L. S. U. passes that stopped mild Tiger scoring threats.

After the tame first quarter, Quarterback Billy Bevis intercepted a Dan Sandifer-propelled Tiger pass on the L. S. U. 40-yard line and ran it back 5 yards. Stephens whipped through tackle to the Tigers' 26-yard mark and on the next play lanky freshman Stephens passed to End Buddy Pike for a touchdown. Joe Steffy entered the game and converted from placement to give Tennessee a 7-0 lead.

Stephens' other touchdown pass came in the final period after he had intercepted a Tiger pass on the Tennessee 25-yard line and the Vols had driven to Louisiana State's 34. Manning and Stephens alternated in driving down the field and with a first down on the Tigers' 34, Stephens tossed to Wingback Ozzie Meneses, who ran 20 yards to score.

Steffy's try for point was blocked and the score wound up Tennessee 13, L. S. U. 0.

Tennessee made another scoring threat in the closing minutes of play when Meneses intercepted Jim Cason's pass at midfield and ran it to the Tigers' 15. Redding and Meneses moved the ball to the six-yard line as the game ended.

It remained for the Tigers to give the 22,000 homecoming day fans their greatest thrill. With less than two minutes to go in the first half, and the Tigers in possession of the ball on their own 31, Freshman Tailback Y. A. Title backed to the 20 and whipped a long pass to Fullback Elwyn Rowan who took the ball over his shoulder on the Tennessee 35 and ran down to the 8. The Tigers get to the 4-yard line where they suffered a 5-yard penalty for excessive time out as the half ended.

A determined third-quarter Tennessee drive, which started on their own 16-yard line fizzled on the Louisiana State 13 when Steffy's attempted field goal from placement was wide of its mark. A 38-yard run by Wingback Stephenson sparked the drive.

A strong Tennessee line nipped every Tiger drive in the budding stage, the Vols holding their hosts to a net total of 97 yards on running plays. Tennessee picked up 198 yards on the ground for 11 first downs compared with 6 first downs for L. S. U.

Stephens completed two of five attempted passes, both good for touchdowns. The Tigers completed 7 of 21 aerials for 97 yards.

Neither team was able to show an effective defense and long marches down the field featured the contest throughout.

OHIO STATE WALLOPS INDIANA BY 21 TO 7

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Ohio State University took 15 minutes to get warmed up to its work today, then turned loose all of its vaunted power to wallop Indiana University's Western conference title Hungry Hoosiers, 21 to 7, before 56,380 customers.

It was the sixth straight victory for the Bucks and the second setback of the season for the Hoosiers.

For the first time this year, Ohio State had to come from behind to get its triumph. The Hoosiers made the Bucks look almost like novices in the first period as they drove 67 yards for a touchdown the first time they had possession of the ball. The payoff was a pass from the six-yard line by Bob Hoernschemeyer to Dick Deranek.

Indiana made only one really serious scoring threat after that and Ohio State took charge of the ball game.

SOUTH CAROLINA WINS FROM HEELS BY 6 TO 0

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A second-quarter touchdown by Don Haralson, 18-year-old 150-pound substitute from Doreville, Ala., gave South Carolina's Gamecocks a 6-0 victory over North Carolina in a Southern conference game today.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(AP)—After Oklahoma A. and M. licked Tulsa, 46-40, in that wild and wooly game last week, Art Griffiomn, one of the Aggies assistant coaches, swore: "They ruined the game of football. I'm never going to another game." . . . Any bets on where he was this afternoon when the Aggies faced the Norman Navy Zoomers? . . When the Yankees drafted Herb Crompton from Toronto the other day, it was the first time they had taken a player in the draft since 1931. . . . Navy's footballers tuned up for Notre Dame last night by listening to a three-hour lecture on practical navigation and this morning they had an examination on that subject. . . . Wonder if they learned to find the goal line while surrounded by a green-jerseyed fog?

Unnecessary Statement

Andrew Schmitz, one of the Branch Rickey's associates in buying a quarter interest in the Dodgers: "As to the future, see Rickey. He is going to do all the talking for our group."

Service Department

Johnny Blood, the old Green Bay Packers star, is reported organizing an army football team in China. . . . Lt. Ben Hogan conducts golf classes for about 50 soldiers and civilians at Washington and Lee University, where he's a student in the army school for personnel services. . . . While the Bainbridge Commodores were preparing to go after their 5th straight football victory, Len Akin, former Baylor and Bears guard, posed for a "jinx" photo with a black kitten on his shoulder. On the next play—in signal drill, too—he pulled out of the line, collided with a teammate and broke his nose.

Cleaning The Cuff

Ralph Jenkins, Clemson center, played all but one play of three games last year and has turned in 60-minute jobs against South Carolina and Tennessee this season. . . . GERALD WALKER IS HELD OVER AT CAMP SHELBY

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Camp Shelby public relations office said today that Outfielder Gerald Walker of the Cincinnati Reds is a "held over" at the camp after being called up Friday for induction.

Walker is undergoing further examinations at the post hospital and whether he will be accepted for services will not be determined until some time next week, probably Thursday.

Walker, who is 26 and the father of four children, was classified 1-A by the Winter Park, Fla., draft board. He and his family were visiting relatives here when his draft papers were transferred to Forrest county board number one.

When questioned at the induction station Friday Walker said he elected army service in preference to marine corps or navy duty.

CURTIS TO MEET SEGURA THURSDAY

Claimants To Mat Titles Tangle In Winner-Take-All Tilt Here

Jack Curtis and Bobby Segura, the former once a claimant to the world's light heavyweight title and the latter present light-heavy champion of Mexico, have been billed for the main event in a winner-take-all battle at Gus Kallio's arena here Thursday night.

Promoter Kallio described the match as "one the fans have been asking for."

"Every since Segura came here there have been requests from the fans that I match him with Curtis," Kallio declared, "and I'm glad to announce that the bout has been arranged."

Segura, who hails from Mexico City, has also been after a Curtis bout, Kallio revealed, and had offered to meet the former world's champion on a winner-take-all basis.

Curtis said a winner-take-all match would be satisfactory to him if the purse was from $500, and Promoter Kallio said he would have five hundred one dollar bills in the ring Thursday before the bout started and would turn the purse over to Commissioner Dave Silverstein who would have instructions to turn the cash over to the winner.

The loser Thursday gets nothing but the exercise.

Kallio said the bout has been arranged Friday after telephone conversations with both wrestlers. Last night Kallio reported Segura had contacted him yesterday asking that the bout be given a two-hour time limit instead of the usual 90-minute limit on featured matches here. But Kallio said he had not been able to contact Curtis regarding the latest Segura request and did not yet know whether the two-hour limit would be in force.

The fact that Segura has requested a longer time limit lends force to the Mexican's claims that Curtis can't beat him but also reveals a certain amount of respect for the ex-champ in that Segura apparently figures that it will take him a bit longer to wear the powerful Mississippi bruiser down if it can be done.

The semi-final attraction will bring together Allen "Sailor" Parker, tough Tennessee veteran, and Al "Tuffey" Olsen, the tattooed man from Kansas City.

The Parker-Olsen scrap will be a 90-minute time limit match, two falls to win.

MICHIGAN BURIES PENN UNDER 41-TO-19 SCORE

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Chattanooga Southern Association baseball franchise will stay in Chattanooga, President Joe Engel of the club definitely announced today after a long distance telephone talk with Clark Griffith, owner of the club.

The decision was made, Engel said, despite a number of attractive and flattering offers made by other cities for the franchise. Miami made high financial inducements in an effort to obtain the franchise.

ANOTHER WEEK

Saturday revealed that only 19 of the 64 parishes had reached their quotas despite an extension of the drive beyond its original closing date of October 28, and that many parishes were far below their allocated goals.

"We are frankly disappointed at the prospect that Louisiana may fall short of its proportionate share of giving in the war fund movement," Fuller declared, "for we know that our people individually would not have that happen. There is not a Louisiana family who does not have some immediate relative or friend who will share in the benefits dispensed by the various war fund agencies. That alone should be sufficient incentive for them to give their full share. In addition, countless millions of the people of the United Nations share in the war fund donation, which takes them food, clothing, medical and other vital needs.

DROPS RUSSIA FROM DESIRED AIR ROUTES

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The United States, which has taken the position that seats in the executive council of a proposed world air authority should be available to Russia if she wants them, has nonetheless deleted the Soviet from her program for desirable air routes.

This was shown today in a comparison of the 20 routes submitted to the International Civil Aviation conference with the corresponding list of routes made public by the civil aeronautics board last June as a world pattern of 140,000 miles of American flag skyways.

The submission of the route pattern to the conference committee dealing with them followed the presentation of a draft convention or proposed multilateral treaty to the committee in that field in which provision was made for two seats for Russia, a representation equal to that of either the entire British empire or the United States.

Along with the removal of points in Russia from its air transport pattern deemed desirable for American operation, the revised draft showed the addition of stops in Spain, the Netherlands and Romania.

Amsterdam and Bucharest were added to routes extending from New York to Cairo by way of New Foundland or Labrador, Eire, England, Netherlands, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Romania, and Iran.

FARMERS' AUCTION TO BE CONDUCTED

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 4.—(AP)—G. J. Durbin, state administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Agency and chairman of the Louisiana USDA war board, announced today that a farmers' auction of surplus equipment belonging to the Defense Plant Corporation, will take place at the Dominique auction barn in Opelousas, Armistice day, November 11, at 10:30 a. m.

The object of the sale, he said, is to make immediately available to farmers a variety of articles useful in agriculture and bring about a quick and economical distribution of certain surplus goods. Items to be placed on the block at Opelousas will include shovels, wheelbarrows, tarpaulins, pipe fittings, electric drills, paint, pipe cutters, pipe dies, and other items used in agriculture.

Most of the equipment has been used, Durbin said, but all is in first class condition.

LITTLE THEATRE PLANS SEASON

Initial Play Will Be 'Petticoat Fever'; Officers Are Named

The opening play of the Monroe Little Theatre will be "Petticoat Fever," which will be presented during December. The director will be Dulcie Nobes.

Because of laziness of season and circumstances over which the board of directors of the Little Theatre of Monroe had no control, it was decided at a meeting held at the home of Col. John A. Rowe, Wednesday night, to give at least three plays during the season of 1944-45.

There will be no season tickets sold this year. All former members and friends are urged to lend all support possible in order to hold the organization together. During the season, ambitious plans will be made for next year, when it is hoped that a director may be found in time to carry on the work in the usual manner.

The board of directors considers itself most fortunate in securing the services of Dulcie Nobes as director of our first play. She will be remembered for her outstanding work as Margaret Brewster in "Arsenic and Old Lace" as Mrs. Ernest Stanley, in "The Man Who Came to Dinner," and as the maid in "Ladies in Retirement."

Dulcie Nobes came to the United States to study dancing but later was induced to take up drama. In connection with the latter work she studied under Gene Francois, actors equity coach in New York City.

She started her professional dramatic career with the old Cherry Lane theater in Greenwich Village, N. Y.

Her association with the Little Theatre has included the following theaters:

Cleveland Playhouse, Cleveland, Ohio; Weathervane, Akron, Ohio, and the Pittsburgh Playhouse, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Tryouts for the first play will be held at the Little Theatre's workshop on DeSiard street as soon as the manuscripts arrive. The date will be announced in the newspapers, and on posters which will be placed in show windows throughout the business district.

The board of directors and the various committee chairmen are anxious to contact everyone interested in taking part in the different activities connected with the organization—acting—art work—furnishings—costumes, technical work, props, etc. The committees are not complete as yet, but will be announced shortly.

Officers and members of the board are as follows: Thomas Serwich, president; Maude Mayo, vice-president; Nell Grigsby, secretary; Carrie Mae Stevenson, treasurer; Col. John A. Rowe, Stanley Reid, C. C. Boardman, May Read, Dan Armand Breard, Lucyle Hupman, R. N. Slator, Mrs. Dorothy Reid, Everett Lawson, Thomas Davenport, Marion Learned and Blanche G. Oliver.

LUSK ON FURLOUGH

Charles W. Lusk MM 1 c of the U. S. Seabees is spending a furlough with his parents Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lusk at 809 South Second street. Lusk has just returned from the Arctic Circle, where he was stationed on special service duty. He brought back with him many pieces of art made by the Arctic people from walrus tusks, in the Kings Islands.

Before entering the service Lusk attended college at Ruston Tech and was connected with the federal government in the New Orleans district.

MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(AP)—While many customers decided to sit out he few remaining market hours before the election, sufficient bidders were present at today's short session to keep selected stocks in the fractionally plus column.

Wall Street, as a matter of fact, was a bit more hopeful than recently regarding the outcome of Tuesday's balloting and some timid purchasing was attributed to this slight change of heart.

There was a tendency toward caution from the start, however. Dealings, relatively slack most of the time, picked up toward the finish. Although numerous issues were unchanged to a shade lower near the close, minor advances were well distributed in virtually all departments, transfers were about 400,000 shares.

Commonwealth Edison and Evans products edged into new high ground for 1944.

Scattered rail bonds improved. Commodities were narrow.

NEGRO IS HELD FOR CARRYING PISTOL

A Negro man who told police he was Johnnie Coleman, Rayville, was arrested in an alley behind the city jail last night after police discovered he had a pistol in his possession.

Police Captain J. D. Busby and Sergeant H. T. Ward saw the Negro standing in the alley under the barred windows. They said the Negro started to run when they saw him, but was hemmed in. He was said to have been holding the gun, a .38 caliber pistol, behind him but dropped it when Captain Busby grabbed him.

The officers said the Negro told them he had been trying to "talk to someone in jail." The Negro was charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

COAT RECOVERED, GIRL HELD

In less than an hour after a local Montgomery Ward official notified police that a Negro girl was believed to have stolen a coat from the store here, Officer Allen Corbin took into custody on a downtown street a 15-year-old Negro girl who was said to have had the coat in her possession. The girl was placed in the Ouachita parish jail to await disposal of her case by Miss Mary Hodge, girls' juvenile officer.

BUS SAFETY IS RAILROAD PLAN

Illinois Central Traveling Engineer Urges Accident Prevention

In connection with the Illinois Central safety campaign and elimination of grade crossing accidents, General Agent John Hardin arranged meeting with school bus drivers, Ouachita parish schools, Monroe, Friday and Traveling Engineer J. D. Coffey discussed safety and also ways of preventing crossing accidents.

Having had 25 years experience as locomotive engineer and traveling engineer, he was in a position to discuss this subject from the angle of the man who is on the head end of the trains.

There were 20 bus drivers present at the meeting and also a number of high school boys. These boys came in at the request of the principal, W. R. Welsh, and superintendent of bus drivers, H. S. Gilbert. A number of the bus drivers were high school students and manifested a great deal of interest in safety. They were told of the responsibility of locomotive engineers in handling human lives and a comparison was made relative to their duties. They were impressed with their responsibility in taking care of the school children and also being spoken of as professional men.

The mothers and fathers of the community were expecting the drivers to safely transport their children to school and bring them home well and happy at night.

Some facts were given relative to distance required to stop passenger trains running 60 miles an hour; also information regarding weight of trains. A passenger train weighing 1,000 tons hauled by a locomotive weighing 250 tons running 60 miles per hour cannot be brought to a stop in less than from 1,500 to 2,000 feet and it takes sometimes as much as a mile to stop a freight train weighing 6,000 to 8,000 tons.

The drivers were cautioned regarding testing brakes on their vehicles and inspecting and caring for their buses. They were reminded of the danger of moving over railroad crossings where there were two or more tracks as in many cases a driver has driven close behind the rear of a train and directly into the path of a train on the next track going in the opposite direction. They were reminded of the necessity of having some of the school children trained to act as flagmen in case bus was stalled on railroad track and were also told that the starter on the bus would pull it off the track in case motor was dead.

The importance of forming safety habits was forcibly brought out and drivers urged to form the habit of stopping for crossings and therefore setting the example for the young children which should be of value to them in later life.

MATERNAL MORTALITY RATE GOES DOWNWARD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The maternal mortality rate continued to drop in 1943, as it has done steadily since 1920, but the decrease in the rate was not as rapid as in 1942.

The census bureau reported today that deaths of mothers in childbirth numbered 7,197 last year. This was actually 70 fewer than in 1942, though the birth rate was 4.3 per cent higher in 1943.

The 1943 maternal mortality rate was 2.5 per 1,000 live births. In 1942 it was 2.6 per 1,000 live births.

GEORGE J. RONY TO SPEAK HERE

Russian Film Producer Will Appear On Town Hall Program

"Europe Reorganizes" will be the topic of the next Town Hall Club's lecture to be given in the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium, November 13 at 8 p. m. The speaker will be George J. Rony. He is Russian born but is now a naturalized American citizen and lives in Hollywood. He has produced and directed more than 100 films in seven countries.

He was appointed by the French government to write and produce propaganda films at the beginning of the present war. He escaped from Paris through France, Spain, and Portugal.

The speaker is described as follows: "A young man, raised in Leningrad, intimately associated with hardship, revolution, war, and death almost ever since his birth, he needs only to tell what he personally has seen to thrill club members and to inform them on the inside life-and-death struggle now going on in Europe.

"The truth about the guerilla war in every Nazi dominated country the never-ending sabotage of Nazi plants and armies, savage Nazi retaliation concentration camps, firing squads, cities laid waste—and the continuation of the underground war to help Allied armed forces are subjects of which most Americans know little in spite of the flood of war inspired books, magazines and newspaper accounts

"Russia's epic war effort, Russia's history of communism, purges, education of the masses, collective farming, national armament effort, her ambitions for the future can be reported by Mr. Rony from the point of view of a native born—and a young—Russian who has known most of Russia's recent leaders. He has travelled across the vast steppes of Siberia, he filmed the great Volga famine, he saw the revolution of 1917-1918, he lived in Russia during months preceding World War II."

The lecture is for members only who have season tickets. No tickets to the public can be sold at the door.

REBUILDING OF HOSPITAL AT JACKSON SEEMS NECESSARY

Conditions There Now Disgraceful But Better Days Are Seen

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of a series of articles on conditions at Louisiana's institutions. Facts contained herein were obtained on a tour of several institutions shortly before Clause Harrison, of Monroe, resigned as director of institutions.)

By George V. Lofton

"Why bother about those people. They're insane, and there's nothing you can do for them."

That statement, as incredible as it may seem, was made by a state legislator in opposing a bill for appropriations for our state institutions. The particular reference was made to the East Louisiana Hospital at Jackson, La.

Thanks to improved methods despite woeful lack of funds and to sympathetic treatment, the hospitals, under the direction of Dr. Glenn Smith, its superintendent, has been able to do something for these unfortunates, and thanks to a legislature which realized the need for adequate buildings and appropriated funds for constructing these buildings, there's a brighter day ahead for this institution.

The legislature voted $2,000,000 in special acts and a bond issue for capital outlay for physical improvements at the hospital. This money, which is only a starter, will be used to replace many of the ancient buildings—one of which is 97 years old—at the hospital. It means that inmates will be housed in buildings which are not firetraps, where new persons who are not mentally balanced are locked into dormitories which are constructed of the flimsiest materials.

Because of lack of adequate funds, it was our opinion that conditions at the East Louisiana Hospital are the worst of any of our state institutions. The staff, which includes a number of well-qualified psychiatrists and other specialists, is doing a magnificent job, and it's largely because of a professional devotion to duty and an humanitarian urge to help a fellowman.

That may sound exaggerated but here's an example: One of the hospital's best specialists resigned recently to accept a position with the Standard Oil Company. He's a psychiatrist and he left the employ of the state because of the larger salary involved. Several weeks later he asked that he be permitted to return to the hospital. Institution officials interceded and the specialist was released by Standard. Why? Because he wanted to return to care for the persons which he knew needed his help.

A committee appointed by Governor Sam Jones to investigate conditions at the state's various institutions made much to do about the "untidy ward" at the Jackson hospital, and they were entirely justified in their recommendations. It's a disgrace to any civilized community.

The "untidy ward" is the building in which persons who have no control over their habits are placed. The stench arising from the building is almost unbearable, and conditions inside are revolting. The filth has soaked into the wooden floor and despite frequent cleaning, the odor and the stain increases as each day passes.

A new building with a concrete floor has been recommended and will be built when the recently appropriated funds are available and the materials can be obtained.

This is only one instance of the deplorable lack of physical facilities at the Jackson institution. With the exception of a hospital, a nurses' home and the barracks for the criminally insane, the entire institution must be rebuilt. These buildings are fairly modern, but the others must be replaced.

Inmates who are placed bed-to-bed in antiquated buildings should be given protection they are not getting now. Persons who are possessed of all their faculties would not be subjected to such hazards; certainly those who are mentally unbalanced should not be locked in frame buildings where any emergency would most certainly mean disaster.

Of the East Louisiana Hospital, there can be only one solution for conditions which now prevail. Rebuild it almost in its entirety. The staff is doing an excellent job, but they can't function without the tools with which to work.

And for the legislator who said: "There's nothing you can do for them," he should be forced to spend a month in the "untidy ward" at Jackson. And he should be required to study the records which show that a great number have been rehabilitated.

MAX FRELLSEN MISSING

Dr. and Mrs. M. Frellsen of Baskin, La., were notified by the War Department on November 4 that their son, Lt. Max Frellsen is missing in action in the Southwest Pacific. He flew a one-man fighter plane the "Hellcat." He is the nephew of Mrs. Dan Armund Breard and Miss Parvey Mallette.

$715 IS RECOVERED FOR NEGRO WOMAN

A Negro woman at Winnsboro yesterday reported she had lost $75, and three branches of law enforcers, a sheriff, a policeman and a state trooper joined in returning the Negro's money, which actually totalled $715, almost within an hour after she had reported its loss.

Sheriff Allen Price at Winnsboro telephoned Sergeant H. T. Ward at police headquarters here that the woman had come into Winnsboro on a truck headed for Monroe. The woman told the sheriff she had left her purse containing $75 and a government check in the rear of the truck. She didn't know the Negro man driving the truck.

Sergeant Ward notified state police, and Trooper Johnny Jones stationed himself on the Winnsboro road meeting incoming trucks. He stopped the described truck and found the purse, but it contained $715 instead of $75 as the woman had reported.

The special contribution is being paid to the trustees of the Thrift Fund to be credited to savings accounts of employes who are participating in the Fund. More than 90% of employes are participating.

The total of approximately $903,000 to be paid to the Thrift Fund Trustees by Standard Oil Company of Louisiana will be credited to its employes in the states of Louisiana, Tennessee and Arkansas, including more than a thousand employes of that company in the armed services.

Miss Masur Weds Sergeant Albert

Beautiful Wedding Unites Young Couple At Masur Home This City

A cathedralesque atmosphere pervaded the home of Mrs. Louis Masur and the late Mr. Masur when their daughter, Rose Elaine, became the bride of Sgt. Stanley Albert, son of Mr and Mrs. Charles Albert of Riverdale, N. Y., in a ceremony characterized by elegant simplicity, Wednesday night, November 1, with Rabbi F. K. Hirsch officiating in the presence of the immediate families and a few intimate friends.

The ceremony took place before an improvised altar in the spacious drawing room where candles gleamed in the midst of beautiful white chrysanthemums overflowing from immense antique crystal urns.

During the nuptial hour Miss Annette Meyer, pianist, rendered "Liebestraum," and "To A Wild Rose." She accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Clyde Sanders who sang in beautiful voice, "Because," and "I Love You Truly."

The bride's gown was fashioned of ivory satin with long, full skirt falling into graceful lengths and ending in a sweeping train. The bodice was tight fitting with yoke of lace and the sleeves were long and tight fitting. A rose point lace veil, caught to the hair with chaplet of orange blossoms, extended the full length of the train. She carried an arm bouquet of gold colored orchids, white bride's roses and stephanotis.

The bride's attendant was her mother who wore a distinctive model of rose chiffon embroidered in silver beads. Her corsage was of gold colored orchids.

The bridegroom was attended by S/Sgt. Peter Margolis.

The drawing room was thronging with friends who called, following the ceremony, to attend the reception Mrs. Masur was assisted in extending courtesies by the bridegroom's parents and the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. H. Heller. Mrs. Albert wore a handsome black dinner gown trimmed in bands of rose metal cloth. Her corsage was of white orchids. Mrs. Heller wore a black crepe model beaded in blue and silver and a corsage of purple orchids.

The bride's table in the dining room was overlaid with imported Point de Venise lace and centrally adorned with the three-tiered wedding cake flanked by Colonial silver candelabra supporting tall white tapers. At the four corners silver receptacles overflowed with white roses and stephanotis tied with white tulle.

A variety of confections, including individual wedding cakes were passed and toasts to the bride and bridegroom were drunk in champagne.

The bride traveled in an original Jabalow model of gold colored light weight wool with a long brown coat lined with gold colored material. Her accessories were of brown and her corsage was of gold colored orchids.

Following a brief honeymoon in New Orleans the young couple will return to Monroe and reside at the Masur home on Marie Place.

The bride, a popular member of the younger set, is a graduate of Neville High School and Stephens College. The groom is an alumnus of City College, New York City, and is a member of Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity, and at present is stationed at Selman Field in Monroe.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Albert, Riverdale, N. Y., Mrs. S. Goldman, Misses Dot and Eve Goldman, New Orleans, Mrs. M. Ehrenberg and Mrs. N. Steppach, Little Rock, Ark., Miss N. Felsenthal, Camden, Arkansas.

Miss Calongne Is October Bride

Marriage Of Prominence Takes Place At St. James Episcopal Church

A wedding of great interest to friends in this city and of social prominence in Baton Rouge was that of Miss Sydnie Carter Calongne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Edward Calongne, and Mr. Joseph Arthur Smith Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Smith of Monroe, at St. James Episcopal Church, Baton Rouge, Saturday evening, October 29.

The impressive double ring cere- mony was read by the Rev. Philip F. Werlein before a large gathering of society. The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of white chrysanthemums and tall palms, while the altar was banked with the white chrysanthemums. Tapers burned in tall candelabra at either side of the chancel.

During the signing of the registry, Miss Weslyn Stephens sang "At Dawn- ing," and during the ceremony Mrs. Underwood Moss sang "O Promise Me." Mrs. Moss sang the same song at the wedding of the bride's par- ents in the same church 25 years ago.

The traditional wedding marches of Mendelssohn and Wagner were played.

Radiantly lovely in a period gown of white brocade, the bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her dress was fash- ioned with a sweetheart neckline, a long fitted waist, a bustle and a full skirt which fell into a slight train. The neck was outlined with insertion of old lace embroidered in seed pearls. Her veil of illusion was fingertip in length, and was held with a Juliet cap of pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of orchids and carnations, and her exquisite lace handkerchief was the gift of her little godson, James Sparks Jr., of Monroe.

Mrs. James Dorman of Monroe, the former Ethel Calongne, was her sis- ter's only attendant. She wore a stun- ning fall model of grape velvet simi- lar to the bride's gown. The dress was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, a long waist, and a long full skirt. She wore a becoming cap of gold se- quins, with a grape colored veil, and carried an arm bouquet of golden bronze chrysanthemums.

Mr. Allen Smith of Monroe was best man, while the ushers were Mr. Paul G. Borron, Jr., Plaquemine, Mr. James Dorman, Monroe, Mr. Carleton Kemp, Lafayette, and Dr. Charles H. Moseley.

Following the ceremony, a re- ception was held at the home of the bride's parents in University Gardens for the out-of-town guests and a small group of intimate friends.

White chrysanthemums and palms were used effectively to form a lovely setting for this reception. The white blossoms banked the mantel in the living room, and there were tall baskets of the same flowers where Mr. and Mrs. Smith stood to receive their guests. They were assisted in re- ceiving by Mrs. Calongne, who wore a handsome gown of plum crepe. Both had corsages of talisman roses. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Howell Carter, who also received with them, wore black crepe and a corsage of gardenias.

The bride's table was especially beautiful with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and silver ap- pointments. It was overlaid with a lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake encircled with tiny white chrysanthemums. White tapers burned in silver candelabra on either side. Silver dishes held white wedding ring mints decorated with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. W. J. Geary, New Orleans, served the wedding cake after the bride cut the first piece. Also assist- ing in serving were the bride's sister, Mrs. Paul G. Borron, Jr., Plaquemine, and her aunts, Mrs. Watterson Reily, Mrs. Wood H. Thompson, Monroe; Mrs. Howell Carter, Jr., New Orleans; Mrs. Maude Carter, and her great- aunt, Miss May Johnston.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith left on a wed- ding trip to the Mississippi Gulf Coast and they will be at home at 819 Jack- son street, Monday. The bride wore a smart suit of earth red, with a gold topcoat. Her small brown hat had a gold feather, and she wore brown ac- cessories. Her corsage was an orchid.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Smith, Sr., the groom's parents; Mrs. William Matthews and Mrs. Rene McCord, the groom's sisters, all of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Howell Carter and their son, Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stumpf, Miss Van Stumpf, Mrs. Mignon Loeliger, Mrs. Arthur Shaw, Mrs. Leo O'Brien, Mrs. Ashley Calongne, Miss Coral Calongne, Mrs. S. D. Graham, Miss Mildred Graham, Miss Mary Johnston, Mrs. Aline Stump, Mrs. W. F. Hagaman, and Mrs. Noel Fillastre, all of New Or- leans; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Wood H. Thompson, James Sparks, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. James Dorman, all of Monroe.

This ceremony was of wide-spread interest here, where the bride's family has been prominent for many genera- tions. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Howell Carter, and of the late Capt. Carter of Baton Rouge.

Brilliant Nuptial Event Takes Place At Grace Episcopal Church In Monroe

Throngs Attend Church Ceremony

Wedding Of Miss Dorothy Steen And Captain Booth Is A Prominent Event

Cathedral tapers flamed high on the altar and white chrysanthemums banked the chancel rails at Grace Episcopal Church, Tuesday night, October 31, when Miss Dorothy Elaine Steen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Steen of this city walked down the white carpeted aisle to become the bride of Capt. Kenneth Edwin Booth, United States army air corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Booth of Indianapolis, Ind., at seven o'clock in the evening.

White chrysanthemums not only banked the chancel and the altar but overflowed from tall white wrought iron pedestal urns arranged in a semi-circle for the wedding party. White wrought iron candelabra supporting tapers of graduated lengths were placed in the background.

At the nuptial hour Mrs. John Sholars, organist, rendered a brilliant concert and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. A. M. Serex who sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me."

The bridesmaids, Miss Betty Ann Taylor, Miss Gloria Ray, Miss Elizabeth Ann Wood and Miss Barbara Steen, all wore ice-blue models fashioned tight fitting basques of satin and diaphanous, floor-length skirts of blue marquisette. Short blue veils of blue tulle were caught to pearl combs worn in the hair. They all carried arm bouquets of Talisman roses tied with long lengths of blue satin ribbon. The maid of honor, Miss Frances Baldwin, wore a rose colored gown fashioned similar to those worn by the bridesmaids and carried Talisman roses.

The flower girl, Linda Barton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jordon Barton, wore ice blue satin and tulle with yellow flowers in her arms. She carried a miniature bouquet of Talisman roses.

The groomsmen were: Lt. A. S. Alexander, Capt. A. D'Orsie, Lt. O. F. Johnson and Lt. Hubert Smith.

The bridegroom was attended by Staff Sgt. R. A. Hogan, who served as chief gunner accompanying Captain Booth on 50 bombing missions while stationed overseas.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a classic wedding gown of traditional white satin fashioned with a tight fitting bodice and deep V pointed yoke of marquisette outlined with pearls. The skirt, long and full, ended in a court train over which fell a billowy veil of tulle caught to a Marie Antionette hat of pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of white rosebuds tied with long lengths of wide white satin ribbon and tulle.

The impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. E. F. Hayward, rector of Grace church.

The reception at the Steen home on Park avenue following the ceremony was a brilliant event attracting throngs of friends who availed themselves of the privilege to view the handsome wedding gifts on display in a room set apart for this purpose.

The Steen home, ensuite, was adorned with white chrysanthemums overflowing from urns placed at vantage points.

The bride's table in the dining room was overlaid with handsome Italian lace and centered with the beautifully embossed three-tiered wedding cake. White tapers in silver candelabra gleamed at the four corners of the table. Silver salvers and compotes held a variety of sweets and individual wedding cakes. Trays of cakes were passed among the guests, who were also served frosted frappe.

Mrs. Steen wore a Madelon blue, floor length model, beautifully embroidered in crystal beads. Her corsage was of pink carnations and she wore pink carnations in her hair.

The bride traveled in a smartly tailored model of Islam green light weight wool with black accessories and a corsage of orchids.

At Jackson, Miss., the young couple boarded a plane for Indianapolis, Ind., where they will visit the bridegroom's parents. They will motor to New York for a two week's visit before leaving for Miami, Fla., where Captain Booth is stationed.

The bride, a charming member of the younger set, is a graduate of Neville high school and Ward Belmont college, Nashville, Tenn. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma and Lambda Sigma Chi sororities.

Captain Booth was stationed at Selman Field for several months and later served overseas. He arrived from Italy last month.

Parents Urged To Vote Tuesday

Miss Myrtle Rodgers, principal of Georgie Tucker school and president of the Monroe League of Women Voters spoke on the 8th and 18th amendments which are to be voted upon next Tuesday and urged everyone to study them before boting. The 8th amendment was recommended as good, which gives the school board the privilege to collect a 5 mill tax if necessary. There are some parishes where more money is needed, however, she pointed out that it is doubtful whether Ouachita parish would need it. However, to help the other parishes, it is recommended that the amendment be passed.

Miss Rodgers recommended the defeat of amendment No. 18 which provides for lowering of the age of children entering school.

She added, that each one should study all the amendments before going to the polls on Tuesday as they are most confusing. She also said that when you vote for the electors to the electoral college be sure to vote for the amendments listed in the same column, otherwise your ballot will not be counted. Start at the top of the ballot and stay in whichever column you start. Miss Rodgers also asked those present to read the publicity that the Monroe League of Women Voters was having regarding the various amendments which may help in the study of the amendments.

R. M. Troy, chairman of Red Cross first aid, was introduced by Mrs. George Varino, president of Twin Cities P.-T. A. council and he said that at the present time there was a field instructor from Red Cross area in the city who was teaching a refresher course to first aid instructors and at the completion of these classes there will be instructors available to teach classes in the schools. He recommended the P.-T. A. units to organize a first aid class and contact Red Cross headquarters for further information.

Mrs. D. L. Nicol, Red Cross nutrition chairman, announced that there were two nutrition classes in progress at Red Cross headquarters at the present time. One, taught by Miss Eva Gae Penton, of the Louisiana Power and Light company, meets each Thursday at 2 p. m. and the other which just started last Wednesday, taught by Mrs. Robert Lukat, formerly dietitian at Conway Memorial hospital, will meet twice weekly, Mondays and Wednesdays at 2 p. m. These classes are open to anyone interested in better nutrition. They are also open to visitors who are unable to attend all classes. Food demonstrations and films are shown at various meetings and exhibits are presented.

Mrs. C. V. Fleming, publications chairman of Twin Cities P.-T. A. council stressed the National Parent Teacher magazine and said it helped those who read it to keep abreast of the times. She said "In wartime or in peacetime, the welfare of a nation's children is of paramount importance. It transcends all else in the realm of the nation's welfare, for if a nation is to survive and thrive it must look to the care, education, and protection of its young citizens." She said that business people would be interested in its articles, and for the pre-school mother it is excellent. Mrs. Fleming added that the awards to the local units were as follows: A blue certificate to each association that secures three new or renewal subscriptions between April 1, 1944 and March 31, 1945.

A gold certificate to each association that secures 10 new or renewal subscriptions between April 1, 1944 and March 31, 1945.

A highest award certificate to each association that has a list of subscriptions equal to the number of families who were in membership on April 15, 1944.

An oak leaf certificate to each association that studies or discusses all of the articles in the parent education course, "Guiding the Citizens of Tomorrow," as part of its program of work during 1944-45.

An acorn certificate to each association that uses the pre-school course "Life at the Pre-school Level" as the basis of its pre-school group's study or discussion.

Mrs. Fleming urged all units to try for these awards.

Mrs. F. E Bennett, membership chairman, urged all units to send in membership dues in order to make the honor rolls. She stated that the unit who won the loving cup for the largest increase of membership as of November 1, will be announced at the next meeting.

Unit welfare chairmen are urged to get in touch with Mrs. W. A. Cotton, regarding any welfare problem which needs the attention of the council.

Better publicity was discussed by Mrs. D. L. Nicol and Miss Myrtle Rodgers. Points to be remembered are: Make your article interesting in order that it attracts the reader; your first paragraph should catch the eye. Double space all material which should be typewritten. Get material in the newspaper office in plenty of time. Be sure names are spelled correctly.

Mrs. George Varino, president of the council who presided at this meeting thanked members who had helped in the war fund drive.

Mrs Saenger Is Guest Speaker At Club Meeting

When Mrs. H. R. Saenger was invited to speak before members of the Readers' Clique in the home of Mrs. Alvin Furlow, she spoke on the subject of "Portrait Painting."

Mrs. Saenger, introduced by Mrs. Clay Albright, said in part:

"When a certain person chooses the artist to do his portrait, then that person becomes the focal point of the artist's thoughts. The artist must know as much as possible about the subject to be painted. He must know whether the subject is formal or informal, he must know his likes and dislikes. He must strive to find the most natural and pleasant expression of the subject to be painted. There is also the problem to settle of where the picture is to be hung, the color scheme, size of the room, the pose and the composition.

On the subject of flattery there were many interesting things said. A woman or girl is trying to attain a certain goal as far as her looks are concerned, and the artist should do everything possible to paint her as she looks when she comes nearest to achieving that ideal. For the way she wants to look and succeeds in looking at her best is the real woman inside. Few people want to be flattered, but they want to look as well as possible.

In a woman's portrait it is the general rule to eliminate lines caused by age. The marks of fatigue or temporary ill-health should be eliminated entirely. Men are not handled in the same way. However, the artist must judge which are the lines of age alone and which are character lines.

In painting children the physical characteristics play an important part and color is stressed. The artist strives to get the bloom and freshness of youth. The background of the portrait should be simple.

"Artists disagree on the right time for the subject's parents and friends to view the portrait. Everyone sees the picture from a different light. It is more desirable to see the picture in its last stages," said Mrs. Saenger.

The last thing is to hang the picture in the home under proper lighting and the frame. Gold leaf and gold metal leaf are not so fashionable now. Whites and greys are being used more frequently. The light should come directly opposite from the wall where the portrait is hung. If it must be hung in the direct light, it can be tipped at an angle about three inches from the wall and that will eliminate the shine from the portrait.

Mrs. Saenger exhibited several lovely portraits she had recently done. They were greatly admired by the members of the club. Mrs. Saenger was very generous in answering questions pertaining to portrait painting.

During the ensuing business session four members volunteered to work at the USO information desk on Friday mornings during November.

During the conversational hour refreshments were served to the following members:

Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. Stanley Archibald, Mrs. Joe Bennett, Mrs. Ed Crowley, Mrs. Alvin Furlow, Mrs. Sidney Gill, Mrs. Walker Glenn, Mrs. Dorothy Hemler, Mrs. Burl Hollis, Mrs. Ivy Jordan, Mrs. Oliver Lowery, Mrs. Skeeter Morgan, Mrs. Gordon Noble, Mrs. Fred Parrish, Mrs. Louis Peters, Mrs. James Harris.

Miss Taylor Weds Lt. Russell Cummings

Marriage Of Young Couple Takes Place At St. James Church In Richmond, Va.

Claiming interest today in this section of north Louisiana is the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Taylor, Florence, Ala., of the marriage of their daughter, Sarah Elizabeth, to Lt. Russell Orville Cummings, United States Naval Reserve, son of Mrs. Benton Orville Cummings, and the late Mr. Cummings, of Columbia, La. The wedding took place Saturday afternoon, October 21, at 4 o'clock at St. James Episcopal Church, Richmond, Va., with Rev. Churchill Gibson officiating.

Pre-nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Frank Massengill, sister of the groom, who sang "At Dawning" and "Because." The traditional "Lohengren" wedding march was used as the processional and Mendelssohn's as recessional, and during the service soft music was played by the church organist J. A. McMeans.

Standards overflowing with white pom pom chrysanthemums and floor baskets of white dahlias formed a beautiful background for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a regal wedding gown of white satin and imported illusion. The satin basque bodice featured a sweetheart neckline, long fitted sleeves with ruffles of chantilly lace on the shoulder and at the wrists, and self-covered buttons down the back of the gown. The full gathered skirt of illusion ended in a chapel length train. She wore a finger tip veil of imported illusion with a coronet of illusion and chantilly lace ruffles. She carried a white prayer book marked with orchids.

Mrs. Robert Griffin, of Florence, sister of the bride and only attendant, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of blush pink faille with yoke and bouffant skirt of net. Small bows of taffeta trimmed the yoke and skirt. Her picture hat was of blush pink net trimmed with matching taffeta, and she carried orchids, pink button chrysanthemums and pink rosebuds.

Oren O. Cummings, of Farmerville, La., served his brother as best man, and groomsmen were Lt. Corbett Peek and Lt. William Jones.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held in the florally adorned salon of the Jefferson hotel in Richmond. The bride's table was developed exclusively in white and centrally adorned with a tiered wedding cake surmounted with figurines of a naval officer and bride. The reflector on which the cake was placed was wreathed with maidenhair fern and button chrysanthemums. The ends of the table were adorned with low arrangements of white blossoms and white tapers burned in silver candelabra. Silver trays held a luscious assortment of gateaux, open-faced sandwiches and hors d'oeuvres. Following the cutting of the wedding cake by the bride and groom with the saber of the bridegroom's commanding officer, white clad attendants served the guests iced frappe.

Mrs Taylor, mother of the bride, was attractively attired in an afternoon model of black velvet with rhinestone trim, and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Cummings, mother of the groom, wore black crepe with a beaded yoke of turquoise. Her corsage was of white roses.

The bride traveled to Washington, D. C., in a distinctive model of fuschia crepe with a black sequin calot and matching accessories. Lt. and Mrs. Cummings are now at home at the Williamsburg Inn, Williamsburg, Va.

Mrs. Cummings is a graduate of Coffee high school and attended college at the Florence State Teachers College and Centenary College in Shreveport, La. Prior to her marriage she held a clerical position in the Navy department in Washington.

Lt. Cummings is a graduate of Georgia Tech, and has served in the Navy for the past three years, ten months of which was in overseas duty. He is now an instructor in the Mine Warfare school, Yorktown, Va.

BRIDAL ATTENDANTS AT THOMPSON-BENTON WEDDING

Prominent Wedding Widely Attended

Marriage Of Miss Irene Wimberly Of Interest To A Wide Circle Of Friends

Claiming the interest of friends throughout this section of the state was the marriage of Miss Irene Wimberly, daughter of Mrs. A. P. Wimberly and the late Mr. A. P. Wimberly, and Gerald Dufur McLendon, Seaman 2/c, United States Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer McLendon, at the Methodist Church, on October 27, at 8 o'clock in the evening, with the Rev. Jack Midyett of Rayville, assisted by the Rev. J. F. Dring, officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with a profusion of southern smilax and white chrysanthemums. The cathedral tapers in tall white candelabra were lighted by Mr. James McLendon, brother of the bridegroom. The pianist, Mrs. R. C. Windsor rendered a prenuptual concert. The soloist, Miss Betty Rhinehart of Monroe, sang in beautiful voice, "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Because."

The bride's attendants were Miss Billie Parker of Winnsboro, Miss Kate White and Miss Jane Watson of Rayville.

Miss Parker, maid of honor, wore a net model of aqua marine with a floor length skirt and tight fitting bodice. In her hair she wore two pearl studded evening combs, arranged in coronet fashion. The combs were gifts from the bride. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids wore exact replicas of Miss Parker's gown and pearl studded evening combs, also gifts of the bride. Miss White's gown was orchid and Miss Watson's chartreuse. They carried arm bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

The flower girls, Nancy Lillian Liles, Virginia Sue Shepard wore matching gowns of pink net and carried baskets filled with pink and blue flowers.

The ring bearer, Jay Flynn, wore a navy blue sailor suit and bore the rings on a lace trimmed satin pillow.

The bridegroom had as his best man, Mr. Elmer McLendon, his father. His groomsmen were Mrs. James McLendon, Mr. Waymond McDaniel, Mr. William S. Barham and Mr. Will M. Rolfe.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. H. A. Wiggers, wore the traditional white satin wedding gown, with a tight fitting bodice with sheer yoke and sweetheart neckline and long sleeves. The full skirt fell into a graceful train. Her long veil of lace and net was caught to a coronet of net and orange blossoms. She carried and arm bouquet of white rosebuds and tuberoses tied with tulle and satin ribbon. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, that her father had given her mother on their wedding day. In keeping with the old tradition, the bride wore "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue."

Immediately after the wedding the bride's bouquet was placed on her father's grave.

The groom's gift to his bride was a beautiful wrist watch.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother.

Mrs. Wimberly extended courtesies in a fuchsia gown with a corsage of gardenias and tuberoses. Mrs. McLendon, the bridegroom's mother, wore a black two-piece model with nail head trim and a corsage of gardenias and tuberoses. Mrs. T. H. Parker of Winnsboro also assisted Mrs. Wimberly.

Mrs. Homer Flynn Jr., of Temple, Texas, a bride of recent date presided over the bride's book.

A variety of confections were served by Miss Dorothy Frances Shaw, Miss La Nell Talley of El Dorado, Ark., Miss Elizabeth Humble and Emily Ann Royce of Monroe.

Miss Lucille Huffman, wearing a turquoise blue net and lace model, presided at the punch bowl.

The wedding cake, surmounted with wedding bells centered the lace covered table.

The bride traveled in a Jablow original model of blue wool with a black coat lined with the blue. Her accessories were black and her corsage was of orchids.

Many out-of-town guests were present from Monroe, West Monroe, Bastrop, Winnsboro, Rayville, Oak Grove, Mer Rouge, Delhi, Bienville, Shreveport, El Dorado, Ark., Temple, Texas, and Lexington, Ky.

Mrs. Ernest Stanger and infant daughter, Patty, are the guests for a few days of Sergeant and Mrs. Lorenzo Smith. Mrs. Stanger, the former Kathleen Miller, dramatic instructor at Ouachita Parish High School, is making her home with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Miller of Baton Rouge while Lieutenant Stanger is serving overseas.

When you stop to think just how much living costs have gone up, it seems almost unbelievable that one of the important conveniences of the home, United Gas Service, has stayed at prewar rates. At a time when other living costs are up, United Gas Service has remained at the same low cost as before the war.

United Gas Service, your source of dependable natural gas, has NOT contributed to the increased cost of living.

Book Review Is Outstanding Event

The Season's Most Artistic Event Attracts The Literary Minded Public

Attired in a blue sheer model with neckline embroidered in rhinestones, Mrs. J. R. White, prominent in literary circles, reviewed her recently published book of poems, "These Are My Hills," before a representative gathering of literary-minded men and women in the assembly room of the Frances Hotel last Tuesday night.

This review was sponsored by the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church, and was arranged by the recreation committee of that organization, under the chairmanship of Miss Elizabeth Langford. Miss Langford directed the preliminary portion of the program, stating that this occasion differed from other book reviews sponsored by the Wesleyan Service Guild, in that, on other occasions, our interest was centered on the book, whereas, in this instance, we are more interested in the author, in whom we have affectionate pride as one of "our very own."

Mrs. Evelyn Atkinson, president of the Guild, was presented and explained that the offering received would be dedicated as a part of the contribution to be made for the week of prayer, she gave a brief sketch, illustrated by pictures, of the projects toward which this fund is to be directed.

Miss Betty Rinehart, of the West Monroe Guild, sang charmingly two numbers, "My Curly-Headed Baby" and "Say a Prayer for the Boys Over There." She was accompanied by Mrs. Gates McHenry.

Mrs. E. C. Gibson, wearing a blue crepe model with silver trimming, introduced Mrs. White and in doing so paid her a charming tribute. Mrs. Gibson received the first copy off the press of Mrs. White's book of verse. She spoke of it as being a volume to love and to cherish. The verses speak straight to the reader's heart—there is a certain quality of quietude that has a special appeal to all who love "home and hollyhocks" as one reviewer very aptly phrased it.

Mrs. Gibson stated that the author of the book to be reviewed was recently made a member of The National League of American Pen Women, in recognition of the quality and range of her contribution to contemporary poetry. She mentioned that the poems included in the book, "These Are My Hills" have been published separately by 22 different publications, and have received wide recognition and favorable comment by poetry critics several of whose comments were quoted.

Mrs. White graciously responding to the introduction, said: "Many of the poems in this book, including the title poem, were inspired by her love of the hills of her native Arkansas, and are an expression of the thoughts and emotions deeply implanted in the heart of one who had grown to feel a kinship with the hills.

Mrs. White explained that by their content the poems grouped themselves into four sections and her comments on these groups were interspersed with the reading of a number of the poems in each. She said that the first section, "Remembering," dealt with the earliest source of her inspiration, the homestead setting and the beloved hills. This section was illustrated by a pen sketch of the old homestead, referred to in the introductory verse, "Homestead Revisited."

The second section, "Through the Years," is prefaced by a pen sketch of the ancestral home of the Henry Albert Whites at Conway, Ia., a home such as we hope it to continue to be able to return to after the period of war and unrest which forms the background for this group. Illustrative of the content of this second group are of the author's most prized and quoted poems "To a Farm Boy Soldier."

The third section, "Hope for Big Courage," as the title implies, is a group of thoughtful and spiritual matter serving to bring the author recognition of the need for a reserve of spiritual fortitude for oneself and to share with others. Appropriately, this division is graced by a sketch of Smith Chapel, named in honor of the author's grandfather, a quiet little church under the trees where dear's were born and the colorful meanings of life were learned. The theme of this section is well introduced by the author's Daily Prayer:

Let not my eyes be closed to each small thing
My heart indifferent to those in grief
My faith in love may I forever sing
And thereby practice prove my own belief.

The fourth and last section of the book, "As Seedwood Leaves Turn Gold," Mrs. White explained, was just for memories, and songs of remembered beauty and recollected joys rather than subject only, but mingled with gratitude and with confidence for the years to be. The final poem was selected by the author as illustrative of the mood reflected by this group. It is entitled "Soliloquy:"

"Hills shadowed by the emerald oaks,
I hear you calling me
From out the past, the holy past . . .
Love's found soliloquy!

Often your trembling violets
Have lined my April way,
As from your summits I beheld
The dusk that follows day.

I long to walk your trails again,
A child, windblown and free,
O'ershadowed hills that cup the dusk,
I hear you calling me."

At the conclusion of Mrs. White's presentation, an opportunity was given the guests to examine copies of the book, which, in addition to its rich literary content, is an artistic and beautiful publication, and also to enjoy the original pen and ink sketches by Carolyn Williams, noted artist, which are reproduced in the book. Mrs. White was awarded sincere and enthusiastic appreciation for her delightful review of her book, of which Clement Wood, eminent critic, has truly said: "This volume of poems by May Smith White is a book to own and cher'h."

FIFTH DISTRICT DEWEY-BRICKER COMMITTEE

DICK TRACY

VEAH, CHIEF, THANKS TO THE ALERTNESS OF PATROLMAN JOHNSON WE SPOTTED THE CAR BUT THE DRIVER WON'T TALK . WE FOUND A GREASING STICKER ON THE DOOR JAMB — AND WE'RE GOING TO CHECK THAT ADDRESS, NOW.

NOW, WE HAVE NO CHAUFFEUR! —AND WE HAVE NO CAR.

I CAN'T FIGURE IT OUT.

AND THAT AMNESIA COMPOUND WE USED ON SNOWFLAKE IS IN THE POCKET OF THE CAR SHE'S SNAPPING OUT OF IT.

IT WAS A SORRY DAY —THE DAY I MET YOU, SHAKY. YOU'VE WRECKED MY LIFE.

NOW, DARLING!

I WANT YOU GUYS TO FIND THAT CAR AND MARTY! — AND DON'T COME BACK WITHOUT THEM. NOW, SCRAM.

I HATE YOU— I HATE YOU — AND I'M GOING TO GET OUT OF HERE.

YOU KNOW, IF I DIDN'T HAVE THE SHAKES — I'D BE A PRETTY GOOD-LOOKING GUY.

I'M TAKING TREATMENTS FOR MY NERVES NOW.

WHY, YES, I GREASED THAT CAR LAST WEEK. THE FELLOW LIVED RIGHT NEXT DOOR.

NEXT DOOR?

— CAN'T UNDERSTAND IT — I FEEL DROWSY — AWFUL DROWSY.

HERE — LIE DOWN ON THE COUCH.

SHOVING THE COUCH TO A POSITION NEAR THE PARTITION DOOR, SNOWFLAKE DROPS SHAKY'S HAND THROUGH THE OPENING.

BUT I'M NOT TOO SLEEPY TO WATCH YOU —

THAT'S IT. TAKE HOLD OF THE CHAIR AND LET YOURSELF DOWN EASY.

GRABBING A SMALL RULER FROM THE WRITING DESK, SNOWFLAKE DROPS IT ON THE FLOOR AND CLOSES THE DOOR.

THEN, WEDGING THE RULER BETWEEN THE DOOR AND THE BASEBOARD, SHE LOCKS THE CROOK'S HAND IN A VISE-LIKE GRIP.

OH-H OH—

OW-OW OW!

FLASH OUTRACES ARDO, AS THEY PRESS HOT ON THE TRAIL OF A GIANT RAT IN ITS JUNGLE WARREN··

"THERE'S THE RAT··IT'S TURNED AT BAY!" FLASH SHOUTS, WITH THE JOY OF THE CHASE.

ARDO SAYS MOCKINGLY, "GOOD! YOU MAY SHOOT FIRST."

FLASH PULLS THE TRIGGER AND HIS GUN CLICKS EMPTILY. WITH FEVERISH SPEED HE TRIES TO MAKE IT WORK, BUT ARDO HAS TAMPERED WITH IT TOO CUNNINGLY·····

"HURRY UP AND SHOOT, FLASH," ARDO CALLS, WITH SECRET MOCKERY. THEN ARDO FIRES SKILFULLY, INFLICTING FLESH WOUNDS THAT ONLY ENRAGE THE CHARGING RAT.

IN AN ACT OF FINAL TREACHERY, ARDO STRIKES A NUMBING BLOW AT THE BASE OF FLASH'S SKULL WITH A FALLEN BRANCH. "NOW, RAT, DO YOUR WORK·· AND DALE WILL NEVER SUSPECT."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—It would be unfair to Harry Truman to say that it is more politically dishonest than President Roosevelt, age 62, because beyond a certain degree of personal and political cynicism, you reach the superlative. His nomination was a guarantee, however, that if they were elected and Roosevelt should die in office, his successor would be a man of the same, if not possibly lower, moral and ethical standards equipped with character and experience to carry on the New Deal in the same contempt for decency in politics and office.

The record of Roosevelt's dishonesty has been reviewed in this campaign and no single item has been denied or omitted are his attempt to pack the courts against the citizens, his deliberate violation of every pledge and plank of his 1932 campaign, his evil collaboration with the criminal gangs of the underworld of unionism and the boss rulers of the cities of the nation, the greedy exploitation of the presidential office for money-making by members of his family and followers, and the purchase of votes and power over Congress through the New Deal spoils and blank check appropriations. All these are admitted and he has enjoyed his fellowship with corrupt politicians, labor racketeers and the leaders of the Tenny gooms in Washington as the occasion for his opening speech of the campaign.
